La Follette's "Millions" To Rule Our Waves
Wheat in Politics

"LA FOLLETTE'S race will cost $2,000,000," says the New York Times. Another New York editor says La Follette will spend ten millions. Newspapers worry a great deal about the millions that Senator La Follette is going to spend. They print nothing about expenditures by the other two candidates. Is it wicked for an independent to use money and all right for a regular?

IN THE WAY of politics it is announced that Mr. Davis will make a very savage campaign, calling upon Republicans to account for their misdeeds.

President Coolidge's Attorney-General Stone, who seems to be a fighting person, brings suit against the trust that overcharges farmers for binding twine.

That, following indictment of the biggest gasoline companies, plus the dizzy heights to which wheat and other grains have been climbing constitutes a pretty good "political speech" by Coolidge even if he should not say anything.

THIS IS the political stage of "rosy reports." They pour in on La Follette, Davis and Coolidge.

Coolidge is told that Ohio, Iowa and Kansas are already his.

Davis is told that with the South and New York, Massachusetts, etc., he is ELECTED NOW.

La Follette's followers say they have "twenty-five States sure." The "rosy" days are pleasant, only some one is sure to be disappointed.

THE GOVERNMENT has ordered a group of flying machines that can travel through the air, on the water and on land. Only one step remains, the amphibian and submersible flying machine pulling in its wings and becoming a submarine. That will come also.

THE BRITISH intend that Britannia shall rule the air waves as she used to rule the ocean waves. In Britain, flying machine development is not left to doubtful and more or less inefficient private effort. The British will establish in 1926 a regular flying machine service between England and India. Flying boats now building will carry 200 passengers, tons of mail and other freight and make the trip between England and India in sixty hours with one stop in Egypt.

WHEAT CONTINUES to be the greatest politician of them all. Topeka reports that wheat replaces oil in Kansas, as an exciting source of wealth.

If the boom in grain continues, as there is every reason to believe it will, carrying prices higher, political opinions and political betting will change.

ONE REPORTER "covering" Chicago's murder trial says of the young murderers: "They slept as soundly as honest men in their jail cells last night."

There is nothing in the theory that honest men sleep more soundly than others. They don't. Honest men have worries, responsibilities, self-reproaches that do not afflict the criminal who accepts no responsibility whatever. Insomnia is not a criminal's disease.

THE SCIENTIFIC world notes the discovery in France of a new anaesthetic called "sommiaire." With no bad after effects this anaesthetic makes possible the longest operations. It is injected into the blood, causes the patient to remain half conscious for thirty hours, which is excellent for major operations.

IT IS HARD to believe as you read of scientific methods for avoiding pain that when anaesthetics were first used they were savagely denounced as works of the devil. Earnest preachers declared that God WANTED us to suffer, and that it was a sin to thwart His divine will.

JOSEPH GREENBERG of New York will return to his home with new knowledge of this country and greater respect for the size of Texas. He left

"BOY KILLERS SHOULD BE HANGED," SAID LOEB

SEE FATHER FOR LAST TIME

Children of Vandenhecke, Doomed Slayer, Bid Him Good-by; Girl Collapses

Miss Cyrilla Vandenhecke of Lawrence, said her last goodbye today to her father, Cyrille Vandenhecke, who is awaiting electrocution early next week for the murder of Gislian Schureman.

She nearly collapsed in the "death house" at State prison when she called with her brother, Gilbert, to bid farewell to the doomed man.

The girl, shaking with sobs and suffering a brief attack of hysteria, was saved from a breakdown when Rev. James Kelley, O. S. A., and Rev. Michael J. Murphy, spiritual adviser and prison chaplain, went to Vandenhecke's cell and quieted her.

After a visit lasting two hours, the daughter and son of the condemned man said goodby and left Vandenhecke alone with Father Kelley.

PROTESTS INNOCENCE.

Vandenhecke again protested his innocence of the crime for which he must die. He told his daughter and son he would like to have a new trial.

It was when her father made his dramatic denial of guilt that Cyrilla Vandenhecke broke down. Her face was swollen from tears and she held a handkerchief to her eyes as she left the prison in a taxicab.

Vandenhecke continues in the best of health.

He was taken from the death cell today for his daily bath, after the departure of his children.

CALM AN DCHEERFUL.

At noon he ate heartily of fish and vegetables. He has made no complaint of the treatment accorded him and views the future calmly and cheerfully.

So far as is known at the prison the status of Vandenhecke's case remains as it was when he arrived from Lawrence county jail. If efforts are being made to gain him a reprieve and a new trial, nothing concerning such a move has been made known to prison authorities.

If Vandenhecke maintains his

Beauvoir, Miss., July 25.—Mrs. Mary Sanders, seventy-four years old, seven times a widow, will be married to her eighth husband Sunday afternoon. The bridegroom is to be A. J. Fuller, ninety-six years old.

Six of her former husbands were Confederate soldiers. Mrs. Sanders and Mr. Fuller are inmates of the Jefferson Davis Soldiers' Home.

Uncle Pat McLoughlin, a bachelor, 104 years old, and also a Confederate veteran and inmate of the home, will act as best man at the wedding.

BIG RUM RAID IN SCITUATE BY COAST GUARD

One of the biggest raids in the history of New England was made by the U. S. Coast Guard service and members of the State constabulary at "Bootleggers Paradise," Union bridge, Scituate, at daybreak, today.

Thirteen men, three automobiles and two fishing boats were seized.

The raiding party descended on the bootleggers just as two fishing boats laden with alcohol, were being brought ashore.

The boats had been to Rum Row off Boston Light, during the night and half a score of bootleggers were on hand to greet them on their arrival.

A five ton truck and two touring cars stood near the water's edge, ready to transport the alcohol to Boston as soon as it was taken from the boats.

The Coast Guard men under Captain Clynn and the State troopers under Corporal Soderberg surrounded the bootleggers and placed the entire party under arrest.

So nicely was the raid timed that not a single man engaged in the illicit operations escaped.

The cargoes of the two boats are valued at thousands of dollars.

CASHIER'S WIFE WILL SELL HOME

Mrs. Harding Is Ready to Impoverish Herself to Make Restitution

A wife's love in a measure will undo the wrong of which Arthur S. Harding, bankers' cashier, is accused.

Harding, for nine years cashier for Estabrook & Co. of No. 15 State street, is accused of stealing $10,000 from his employers.

Harding's wife, Mrs. Grace B. Harding, the mother of the four children of the accused man, has come forward with the announcement that she will sacrifice the Harding home at No. 24 Hayes street, Arlington, if it is proven that her husband is guilty of the peculations charged against him.

It is a two-family home—a modest structure—owned by the wife. The Hardings have occupied one suite in the structure for years.

WENT TO WORK.

"I will sell my home and use the money to help Arthur make at least partial restoration," said Mrs. Harding when interviewed today.

Nine years ago, Harding, who is only thirty-one, was selected from a long list of applicants for a position with the banking house that now accuses him of theft.

Young Harding applied himself to the task before him. He was on the bottom rung of the ladder and he aimed to climb high. He was one of the best boys the company had ever employed. He made good.

Though he worked hard during the day at the banking office Harding was not content to spend his leisure hours in idleness or even in the recreations of his "gang."

He was looking far ahead.

Of a decidedly mechanical turn of mind he turned his attention to invention. He strove to devise something for which there was a supreme need. He thought of the accomplishments of Edison, Ford, Marconi and other great inventors.

Finally he found the "need and filled it.

INVENTED THE CAN.

He devised a new type of oil can and patented his invention. He was not the common kerosene can nor yet a leaky, greasy can for oiling machinery.

Arthur Harding's can for machine and motor oils, would outsell any other can on the market he thought. It would clean, its contents were released in an easy and steady flowing stream which could be stopped at the will of the motorist, or machanic by soft pressure on the thin bronze bottom.

The proposition looked great to Harding.

By the time he received his first patents he had been advanced through various clerkships to the

SEEK JUSTICE IN SON'S DEATH

GRIEF-BOWED PARENTS OF "BOBBY" FRANKS

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Franks as they appear today heart-broken in the tragic fate which befell their boy. Both have taken the witness stand for the State at the trial of the youths' self-confessed slayers, Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb. They seek only justice in the brutal crime which took away their son and bowed them with an ever-lasting grief.

STUDENTS SHOW SIGN OF FEAR

Become Suddenly Grave as a Witness Tells of Scheme to Cover Up Own Crime

Chicago, July 25.—A tale of cunning, daring and nerve on the part of young "Dickie" Loeb, that rivals anything ever conceived by the fictional brains of "Nick Carter" and "Old King Brady," was spun into the record of the Leopold-Loeb murder trial today by three reporters for Chicago newspapers who worked on the story of Bobby Franks' kidnaping and brutal murder.

One after another the reporters, Howard Mayer, Alvin Goldstein and James Mulroy, took the witness stand in Judge Caverly's court and told how young Loeb, now on trial for the murder of the boy, became a volunteer assistant to them in their work, and how he was responsible for "turning up" some of the important information in the case.

Young Loeb even mingled with the crowd outside the Franks home the night when young Bobby's crushed and naked body had been recovered from the culvert into which it had been jammed by Loeb and Leopold, the reporters said, and the shrinking collegian expressed horror at the crime.

SAID SLAYERS SHOULD HANG.

"Loeb asked me about the condition of the body, as I had seen it at the morgue," Goldstein said. "I told him and he said: 'That's terrible, awful. Guys who do that should be strung up.'"

It is just that fate that the State of Illinois is now trying to impose upon the young college students.

A little earlier, James Mulroy, another of the reporters, had testified that he had asked Loeb, "what kind of a boy this Franks boy was. Would he fight?" and Loeb replied, said Mulroy, "that if he were going to kidnap or murder anybody young Bobby Franks was just the kind of

A big United States navy dirigible observation balloon which broke from its moorings at Lakehurst, N. J., early today flew over Scituate and out to sea after passing over Providence, Taunton, Rehoboth, Brockton, Rockland and Hanover. The ropes dangled from the big ship which was 800 feet in the air and settling fast when it sailed out over the water.

Thousands of persons in Providence watched the fugitive blimp as it flew on even keel over the outskirts of the city just before 9 o'clock. The covering was badly torn and the hanging ropes were visible.

Many in Rockland also saw the balloon. In Brockton workers on their way to factories and offices stood on the streets and watched it pass over the city at a height of 2,500 feet.

Reports from Lakehurst indicated that the big observation "ship" was torn from its mooring truck by high winds. No one was in the basket. Owing to the early morning darkness air station attaches were unable to follow the course of the "runaway."

The dirigible Shenandoah was still in the air at her mooring post, riding steadily. Later she was returned to her hangar when the high winds subsided.

STORM ON WAY TO END HEAT

Elizabeth Madden, twenty-one and single, of No. 1,352 Dorchester avenue, Dorchester, was overcome by the heat today at No. 113 Albany street, South End, and removed to the City Hospital.

A warning was given by the weather bureau today to owners of motor boats, sailing dories and row boats not to venture out in the harbor any long distance as a severe thunder storm is due in Boston late his afternoon or early tonight.

Although the weather bureau statistics showed a little drop in the temperature, the most important news was of he big thunder storm that is due. It is working its way East.

The bureau announced that cooler weather is due Saturday.

BOY 'HITCHING ON' IS KILLED

The ancient schoolboy trick of "hitching on" to a motor truck while while riding a bicycle claimed another victim today. He was Peter J. Berkley, fifteen years old, of No. 40 Prince street, Cambridge.

On Mt. Auburn street, Watertown, he "hitched on" to a speeding truck, obscuring his view of what was in front and trusting to luck.

At Norsman avenue he suddenly decided to abadon the truck and released his hold, swerving out directly in front of a Boston Elevated car.

Motorman John H. St. Sauveur of 19 Cambridge street, Cambridge, applied the brakes, but before he could halt the car the wheels of the front truck had passed over the boy and his bicycle.

Berkeley was pinned under the second right wheel on the front truck. It was necessary to jack up the truck to get him clear. Scores of men and women saw the accident and while the mourning youngster was being lifted clear several women fainted.

Patrolman Igoe and Holmes of the Watertown police commandeered an automobile and took the by to the Cambridge Hospital. But he was dead when they got him there.

ST. LOUIS POLICE HEAD TAKEN ILL IN BOSTON

Colonel Philip Bruckman, president of the board of police commissioners of St. Louis, who, with Chief of Police Martin O'Brien and Chief of Detectives Edward H. Hoagland and the latter's wife, made a trip to Montreal to attend a conference of police commissioners, was taken sick on his way from Montreal last evening and is at the Copley-Plaza Hotel, suffering from what is believed to be the "flu."

The party intended to visit every large city in New England to study the police departments.

HOG PRICES HIGHEST IN LAST TWO YEARS

Cleveland, July 25.—Hog prices today reached $10 a hundredweight at the stockyards here, the highest mark in two years. The advance reflects high corn prices, it was said.

BOY'S FIND BODY OF MAN IN WATER

The body of a well-dressed man, believed by police to have been robbed and thrown into the water, was found floating by boys near the Texas Co.'s plant on Marginal street, Chelsea, today. A piece of paper in a pocket bore the address "62 Chambers street." The man was about 45 years of age, 5 feet 7 inches in height and 170 pounds in weight. The body was clothed in a gray Palm Beach suit and low tan shoes.

Gold in Our Teeth—Plenty of It

And Much More in the Ground

Mr. Davis, Secretary of Labor, rejoicing in our great country, says that American workmen have more gold in their teeth than other workmen have—all told.

It may not be true, but this is SURE. The unused lands of the United States contain more potential wealth going to waste than all the wealth of any country in Europe. It is a pity that our own foolishness, expressed in the laws against immigration, will not allow good men to come here and develop that wealth for themselves and for us.

Would it have been foolish to shut out good immigrants when our population was 10,000,000? It is just as stupid to shut out good citizens with our population at 112,000,000.

We need 100,000,000 more people now, just as we did 100 years ago. He who does not know it does not know much about the country or what brings wealth.

Using the Brain

A Shift of Thought From Cigarettes, Baseball, and "Wimmen" to Things That Could Might Pay Well.

Have you ever thought about the possibility of digging a useful invention out of your FRONT BRAIN where ideas are born? This is the country, and the American is the type for the production of inventions.

The American Patent Office has issued over a million and a half of patents. Fifty million copies of the patents cover twenty miles of shelves in the Patent Office.

This country has a right to be proud of its inventive genius. The Patent Office announces these among other American inventions:

"United States patents have been granted to American inventors for the telegraph, the telephone, the sewing machine, the sulphonization of rubber, the moving picture, the phonograph, the incandescent light, the typewriter, the automobile, the sleeping car, the electric car, the linotype machine, the vacuum cleaner, the aeroplane and the leading features that make modern radio possible."

Where would the world be today without the things listed there?

Thousands of other new ideas will be developed, making the inventors rich and famous.

Why not devote some thought to a new idea? It may not succeed, of course, but at least it doesn't cost anything. That is more than you can say for the pastime of "picking the winners."

Marriage, Death, Quarrel

Like the Middle Ages

Jenny Lefkowitz, daughter of orthodox Jewish parents, met Dominick Scola, a little Italian boy, when she was going to public school and he to the parochial school. Later they were married.

The girl's parents, considering her dead, held funeral services in her memory, lasted for a week and never again mentioned her name. She was disowned by [illegible] and Jews [illegible] hostile Italians and Jews [illegible] and the police were sent to re-

[illegible] girl's parents say she died because she wasn't allowed to practice her religion. Her husband said she became a Catholic that she might be buried in consecrated ground and lie beside him. The police prevented trouble among the screaming crowds in the street.

The girl was buried from the Church of Our Most Precious Blood, under a strong police guard.

That is the bare police record. It helps you to realize what religious animosities and hatreds must have been in the Middle Ages.

What does God think of it, assuming that the power managing this universe keeps track of us in minute detail?

Broken Neck, How Much?

And Good Coolidge News

Miss Rosetta Duncan, who acts, sings and dances for a living, had her nose and a rib or two broken by a gentleman of the police force in the small town of Cicero, Illinois. She told about it and did not praise the policeman.

He and his associates on the police force have sued her and her brother for $60,000. For how much would they have sued her had they broken the lady's NECK instead of merely breaking her nose and rib?

The government board that lends money to farmers announces an interest rate reduction to 5 per cent. from 5½. That will interest Senator La Follette and J. W. Davis. When farmers are told that they can borrow mortgage money from the government at 5 per cent., they will feel that President Coolidge's Administration is doing well.

Most of them don't know that Stock Exchange gamblers can borrow all the 2 per cent. "time money" they want to carry on private speculation from private banks.

Two hundred thousand farmers borrowed $58,000,000 from the Federal Board last year. If any farmer wants mortgage money, let him step up and get it at 5 per cent., while the campaign lasts.

He Won't Keep It

Such Money "Goes Back"

The young son of General Wood, supposed to have made millions in Wall Street speculating over the cable under the Pacific Ocean, tells his friends that he made half a million at Monte Carlo. That isn't good news for his REAL friends.

The man who makes half a million, francs or dollars, at gambling is on the way to give the gamblers all he has.

Who gives to the poor lends to the Lord; who wins from the gambler only has the money lent to him. It will go back and more with it. And he will be poor.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN ROWLAND

THERE'S no place like home!

And on a blue Monday morning you're sure of it.

Home! Where the joys and sorrows of each are shared by all—and likewise the towels and brushes and soap and razors and shower-bath and mumbles and morning newspaper.

* * *

Home—the place where a secret thought is impossible, where you can't even open letters addressed to you without getting into family discussion.

Helen Rowland

Home—where liberties are freely taken. Impertinent questions are asked, advice freely given and unsolicited criticism offered without apology.

Home! A man's castle—except that there is no drawbridge, moat or portcullis to defend him against the prying neighbor, the importuned dinner guest or the visiting family.

Home—where no message is longing is sacred—not even a man's letters or a woman's beauty cream!

Home! Where the cook sets the dinner hour, the radio sets the retiring hour, and the baby sets the waking hour.

Home—where you've GOT to eat when the rest are hungry, sleep when the rest are sleepy, suffer on cleaning days and be bored on Sundays.

* * *

Where everybody borrows your handkerchiefs, your toothbrushes, your shoe-horn, your books and your umbrella—and there is no such word as "thank you."

* * *

Where the Sunday roast becomes stew on Monday, hash on Tuesday, and soup on Wednesday, and you can't send it back to the kitchen or kick to the "management."

Home—where you can have everything you want — provided somebody else doesn't want it at the same moment.

Home—where there is only one tenderloin to the steak, one chicken to the lettuce, and everyone else wants a piece of the breast of the chicken.

Home—where the desire to sit in the other room and read a book is regarded as an insult, and the desire to be left alone is a sign of mental derangement.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

FRIENDS may say that luck attends me, that I treat an easy way, and a kindly fortune sends me much I long for every day. Now, I could not well gainsay them, that would be a crueller thing, and, in fact, as I survey them, all the days their blessings bring. Gifts of friends and love and kindness, gifts of plenty for each need, gift of spirit endowed from blindness, threatened woe by foolish greed. It is true, these joys surround me and with thankfulness I say that a deep content has crowned me which will never pass away. Yet I could not well appraise them, tell which gifts are great, which small, how the world would mock or praise them [illegible] care for one, the best of all! There are countless bonds and letters Love can devise to hold me fast; but for me my Mother's letters have no earthly counterpart. Day by day they journey to me, tender as my Mother's fancy may be; day their words imbue me with a little of her green. Here in numbers ever growing they urge gently and away; like a fountain ever flowing, wells her love from day to day. Ever something new and sweet, some sweet thought of hope and cheer, something of her spirit's splendor captured on the pages here. When the postman comes, I wonder does he dream what precious things he amid the jumbled plunder of the daily mail he brings?

85-Year-Old Invalid in Need

Helping Hand Editor:

Please Editor I am asking you in a case of charity if there is anyone who has a white iron bed and spring they don't need, also some old sheets and anything in the line of clothing for a lady who is an invalid with a broken back and two broken ribs. She is 85 years old and sleeps on a couch which is very uncomfortable. I am a friend of hers and it is very hard for her boy to make both ends meet. Anything would be appreciated, for she is greatly in want. Also some night dresses. She hasn't any. I can patch anything and if anyone has a suit for a lady or a skirt and waist suit 44. MRS. L. C. B.

Grateful

Helping Hand Editor:

I received a letter from a lady in regard to a machine and she also had some other things which are real useful to me. I thank her very much and hope she enjoys the best of health and prosperity. MRS. C. B. C.

Cripple Wants Radio Set

Helping Hand Editor:

I am a boy 16 years old and I am a cripple and can't go out much. Has anyone of your kind readers a small radio set as we cannot afford one. I will be very glad to get it. JOHN I.

Need a Vacation

Helping Hand Editor:

Have heard of the good work done by members of the Helping Hand and wish to ask if there is one among the number who can accommodate a Christian mother and daughter of 12 for a short vacation. The mother works every day and is very tired. She is about to have a two weeks' vacation and would like to go to salt water if possible to rest. MRS. E. M. I.

Thanks for Mrs. W. W. C.

Helping Hand Editor:

Please thank Mrs. W. W. C. through your column, as I lost her address, for the things she sent me. They were wonderful and very serviceable.

MRS. E. R.

Children Need Clothes

Helping Hand Editor:

I wish you would try and help a woman with five children. Her husband has been out of work for seven months and doesn't know when he will start again. The children's ages are: Boys, 14, 12, 10; girls, 11 and six years. Any clothes and shoes would be appreciated. Boys' shoes, 6-3½ and 13; girls' shoes, 1½ and 8.

MRS. L. C. S

Mrs. M. C. Thanked

Helping Hand Editor:

Will you please thank Mrs. M. C. of Roslindale for the bundle of clothing she sent me.

DR. FRANK CRANE ON BRING BOOK BACK

By DR. FRANK CRANE

IT is a strange kink in the human conscience that people who will not steal anything else will steal a book.

Perhaps it is an offshoot of the general idea that books, and the intellectual labor that goes to produce them, really count for nothing compared to beefsteak and potatoes.

Whatever may be the reason, the fact is that almost every man's library contains one or more rebranded mavericks which are liable to rise up and say a few words on the Day of Judgment, unless he gives them back.

Some are so lost to all sense of shame in this matter that the books they have purloined are the ones they value most. In fact, they do not seem to enjoy a book thoroughly unless it belongs to somebody else.

From what Freudian abyss this impulse comes we leave it to the psychologist to determine.

However, we ran across a bit of history the other day which is here set down as a warning to all book thieves.

About 1836 the people of Barcelona were living in a sort of terror. One mysterious crime succeeded another. A priest, a student, a writer and five other persons successively were assassinated.

The victim, in each case, was stabbed by a poignard, but nothing was stolen from him, neither his money nor his valuables.

Why all these murders?

Suspicion, by and by, fell upon a man who kept a second-hand book store.

He was seized. Some proofs were found of his guilt and finally he confessed.

It seems that he had sold each of his victims some volume which he loved and then had murdered them so as to get the precious books back.

He was condemned to death and executed.

This story resembles that of the famous jeweler whom Hoffman describes in his story, "Mlle. Scudery." This jeweler assassinated, at night, a client who had bought during the day some beautiful stone with which the jeweler was in love.

The moral of all this is simply to show those persons who fail to return books that do not belong to them that there is such a thing as loving a book, and that this love also can rise to such a passionate height as to eventuate in violence.

And if a man who has bought a book is liable to be murdered by the man who sold it to him, how much more danger do they run who borrow books with or without the owner's knowledge, and neglect to bring them back!

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON SAVING OUR FORESTS

By Garrett P. Serviss.

Famous Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

NOT long ago I listened, with the aid of the radio waves, to an address in Washington by an officer of the United States Forestry Service, on the ravages made by forest fires. Of course, we all know that forest fires are very numerous and very destructive in dry seasons, and that it is to the interest of every inhabitant of the land that they should be prevented. But we need to have our attention called more frequently and more emphatically to the fact that the careless setting of a forest ablaze is nothing less than a crime, and it ought to be dealt with as a criminal act. It is a blow at the prosperity of the whole country.

Once we had 822,000,000 acres of virgin forest; now we have only 137,000,000. We have left, it is true, 228,000,000 acres covered more or less with forest trees of varying quality, but none of virgin growth. These include 185,000,000 acres of second growth, much less than half of which is "saw-timber" size, while there are 51,000,000 acres which have been cut over, burnt over and allowed to go to the dogs in general, so that they are practically unproductive of timber or of anything else.

It is authoritatively stated that all over the United States where any noticeable amount of forest still exists, it is being cut off four times as fast as it is renewed! And on top of this reckleasness come the forest fires, burning and ruining hundreds of thousands of acres every year.

There is no more melancholy spectacle in the world than that of a burnt forest, with its blackened stumps and its twisted and tortured limbs and branches, and its tangle of parasitical weeds and brushes hastening to cover its site with a vast, repellant scar. Since the earliest settlements, when the glorious native forests clothed the continent with oceanlike amplitude, it is probable that more great trees have been destroyed by fire than by timber cutting.

The latter can be defended in part, at least, on the score of necessary use; but for the fires there is no such excuse. Accident is too inhuminizing a word to apply to the results of carelessness and indifference. An unextinguished match, or a still burning cigar, or cigarette, stub, thrown aside into a mass of leaves or undergrowth, has been the cause of the loss of hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of timber. Equally dangerous are the embers of camp fires, and fires built by a passing automobile party to prepare lunch.

Nobody who has not had practical experience with such things can imagine how subtly a thread of fire will eat its way in dry, or partly dry, grass, seeming sometimes to feed upon the soil itself, charged as it is with dry vegetable matter, and so spreading unnoticed, under the cover of leaves and fallen logs, to break out, after hours who should have hunted it down have gone, in a destructive conflagration.

When we burn up our coal beds we can do nothing to replace them. Coal is, or has been, a product requiring geological periods of time for its creation. Once gone, it is gone for that age. But a forest is renewable by a continuing process. It may be replanted, in part, all the time, and so be kept alive for a generation after generation to use its treasures. But with that aim its resources must be husbanded.

Expense must not exceed income. A reasonable restraint must be exercised in the cutting, for it is vastly better to have a moderate supply that never gives out than to indulge in extravagance, which quickly uses all and leaves nothing. These common places of domestic economy have a particular application in the art and science of forestry.

Once-Overs

GIVE DUE CONSIDERATION TO THE AGED.

Do you pay proper respect to old age?

The slow-moving person looks to you like an obstacle in your way.

Is it not also true that you are not respectful to the elderly person employed in the place where you work?

Do you not consider the elderly person filling a menial job as one who is entitled to little consideration from you?

Perhaps at your age that person was better prepared for "old age" as you look at it, than you are today, but misfortune has swept away savings and unfortunate investments have meant loneliness.

There are other things which may have acted as handicaps.

Family illnesses, entailing big doctor's fees, hospital bills, or a death in the family, which kept eating up what would have been saved year after year to get the bills satisfied.

Perhaps parents have been unfortunate, or a brother has had to be set up in business, or a sister to be educated and helped to success.

All these things and many others may have taken away every cent till the generous one is at last at old age and must take a menial position or become a burden to someone, so if you are just you will hesitate before you show disrespect to an aged one who must do odd jobs to keep going.

LOEB SOUGHT TO COVER OWN CRIME BY POSING AS 'INVESTIGATOR'

BOYS SHOW FIRST SIGN OF FEAR

a cocky little—I would pick." Those were his own words.

Neither Loeb nor Leopold relished the testimony of the reporters.

Throughout the session they had smiled and laughed outright as witness after witness passed through the box and contributed their knowledge of the case to the State's net of evidence.

But at the testimony of the reporters their faces grew grave and sullen and young Loeb twisted to Clarence Darrow and Benjamin Bachrach, their counsel, that the witnesses be cross examined.

YOUTHS BECOME GRAVE.

Loeb submitted some questions he wanted them asked. But the counsel on the advice of Jacob Loeb, uncle of Dickie and former president of the Chicago Board of Education, refused to cross examine and both boys lolled back in their seats in sullen silence.

First Mayer then Gussenhain and Mulroy told the story of their well known young Loeb for some time and that while walking on the street they met him on the uneventful campus.

Young Loeb, they said, manifested an extraordinary interest in their assignment and discussed mysterious theories with them as to how to solve what was then a mystery—the identity of the kidnapers and motive behind the crime.

"It was Dickie himself," Mayer said, "who broached the suggestion that Jacob Franks' son would be the boy took by exploring in search of the kidnapers in busy streets—the most likely scene for such operations to the police—as the failure would be left at some point or other store in the vicinity.

"What about the cigarette around the drug stores and restaurant," Mayer said Loeb asked him.

CANVASS DRUG STORES.

Mayer said he didn't think much of the idea but Loeb insisted on it as a good hunch and finally the reporters carried it out.

They finally wound up at a drug store in East Side Chicago at which Leopold had anonymously instructed Jacob Franks to reside, and there, by questioning the clerks, they found that somebody had been calling Franks by telephone there.

"You see that what counted from Reading detective stories," Mayer quoted Loeb as saying, with a laugh when clear cognizance him on the correctness of his "hunch."

The youthful defendants were their own companions in the court opened. Nattily dressed, clean shaven, with hair carefully parted and slicked back, they filed into the court with their bailiffs and casually resumed their assumed role of interested spectators at their own trial. They both smiled and nodded to their attorneys, their friends and casual acquaintances.

There was a bare nod between young Leopold and the sad old man whose namesake and youngest he is.

TRIED TO COVER CRIME.

The first witness was Frank Reed, a professional diver, who told of finding the shattered eyeglass case Paul lagoon and recovering the portable typewriter on which Leopold wrote the letter to Jacob Franks, demanding the fifty thousand as ransom for the boy.

Leopold had mutilated the machine and thrown it into the lagoon to destroy the trail which the police and newspaper reporters were following. He later told the police where it was.

Percy Van de Boreet, a clerk in the drug store in East Marquette street, then testified concerning answering the telephone several times on May 22, and hearing a voice ask if "Jacob Franks is in the store."

It was to this store that Leopold had directed Franks to repair and await instructions as to where to recover his son. The boy was then dead.

James C. Kemp, a porter at the store, gave similar testimony.

There were numerous telephone calls to the store to ascertain if Franks had been located before the kidnapers and murderers of his boy. The father had not gone to the store because he could not be had learned his son was dead.

The cunning with which Leopold sought to cover his tracks after the murder of the boy was revealed in court by George Lewis, a student instructor of ornithology and a frequent companion of Leopold's in the study of bird life.

"BIRDING EXPEDITIONS."

Lewis testified that Leopold called on him on May 22, the day after the Franks murder, and asked him to take out a class in bird study, which he did, the class going to the vicinity of the culvert.

Again, on the following Sunday, Lewis said, Leopold called him and said he had been interrogated by the police concerning the Franks case.

"He asked me," said Lewis, whether I had had my glasses. I used to identify further the "death chisel." He said he had received it from Bernard Hunt, the night watchman, who previously told of picking it up after it was thrown from an automobile May 22.

TELLS OF FINDING TRINKETS.

Judge Caverly interrupted to warn some photographers back from a position in front of the bench.

"Keep on abusing your privileges and you will lose them soon," he said.

Frank A. Millikin, another policeman, corroborated Elco briefly. Hugh Byrne, a plain clothes man, from the police department, told of finding four the culvert the shielding which Mrs. Franks identified as Thorpe's. It was found ten feet from the culvert, he said.

Another officer told of the defendants leading a searching squad to Hessville, Ind., where shoes, hats, buckle and rims pin all previously identified by teh parents as the belongings of Robert, were found.

Nearly half a hundred witnesses have already testified in Justice Caverly's court and half a hundred more are yet to be called, including two acres of affidavits, one representing the State and the other the defense.

All around the courtroom silhouettes. The State has a flock of them, taking notes, making observations. The shrewd lawyers which the stripped bows' wealthy families engaged to save them from being hanged, have another flock of them.

When the time comes, probably next week, the psychiatrists will swing into action.

There are rumors of a coup on the part of the defense, something spectatular such as characterized his action Monday when he unexpected by withdrew his plea of not guilty and pleaded his charges guilty of murder, a most unusual proceeding.

8,000 KLANSMEN TO MEET AT KEENE, N. H.

Keene, N. H., July 25.—According to Provincial King Kleagle Colman C. Reed, from 6,000 to 8,000 members of the Ku Klux Klan from Maine, Massachusetts and New Hampshire are to attend an open air meeting in this city Sunday afternoon. The place of the meeting has not been announced.

The Portsmouth Klavern band is to furnish music, and there will be addresses and singing by prominent Klansmen.

BENEVOLENT SOCIETY HAS PARTY TONIGHT

West Chelmsford, July 25.—With all the arrangements in the hands of Miss Lottie Snow, the annual lawn party of the Benevolent Society will be held this evening at Camerra Park.

With a midway and numerous other attractions, the lawn party should be especially well attended. The feature will be a band concert by the Chelmsford Band.

WEDDING, KEPT SECRET FOR MONTHS, REVEALED

That they were married last October the culmination of a romance that began in their grammar school days has just been revealed by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lemaire of Lynn. The latter was formerly Mrs Claire Pelkey. The marriage, they announced, took place in Stoneham, the Rev. M. M. Thornberg, former pastor with Swampscott M. E. church, officiating.

Loeb and Leopold Have One Hope--Cool Weather

Joliet, July 25.—As Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb started across the bridge of sighs from jail to courtroom, they electrified reporters by announcing:

"We have our first formal statement to make through the press."

Reporters gripped pencil and paper.

"We are united in one great and profound hope for today," said Dickie solemnly. "Mr. Leopold and I," nodding to ward "the babe," have gone over the matter thoroughly and have come to a decision. We have just the one hope. There was a pause.

"Our hope," he concluded, as he broke into a laugh at his own little joke, "is that today will be a darn sight cooler than yesterday."

BUTLER WILL SIT TIGHT IN PHILDELPHIA

Philadelphia, July 25. — General Smedley Butler won't quit as head of the Philadelphia police force unless he is kicked out of the job.

The Marine chief, in an address to the inspectors and lieutenants of the police force, declared that he was appointed for four years and that he was going to sit tight on the job for that length of time unless Mayor Kendrick forced him from office.

"I won't say any more. Just sit that filter through your brain. Don't come vigorously. That is the policy of this administration. It is what the Mayor wants done. He hasn't stopped in this fight and I know that that kind of a man won't stop.

"I am still director of public safety. I haven't moved out yet, and I advise no one to gamble on my moving out. I am not going down and I am not going to get out. Every day I put in on on this job the longer I remain, there is less likelihood of my going down and it is harder to put me out."

"More Pay," Cry of Barbers! and Bobs Are the Cause!

Chicago, July 25.—Bobbed hair is given as the cause of wage increase demands being made by the Journeyman Barbers' Union, which threatens to take a strike vote next week if an agreement is not reached.

"With bobs ranging in price from $1 to $1.50, with the prospect of curling, marcelling and shampooing, with the barber having to go to school to learn how to do it, we want more money," W. S. Leldy, union president, says.

The present scale is $38 weekly, with 60 per cent of all checks over a total of $48. The demand is for a $48 salary and the same percentage of all over $50.

Steps on "Log," but It Is the Kind That Bites

Marksville, La., July 25.—Thomas Briggs of Little River, near here, was attacked by a 16-foot alligator while picking moss in the swamps. In crossing a ditch containing about four feet of water Briggs stepped on something he thought was a log.

The "log" proved to be an alligator, which caught Briggs just above the knee, cracking the bone of his leg. After a struggle the alligator let go and made a vicious and unsuccessful attempt to catch Briggs' body.

Briggs' cries attracted attention of a brother nearby, who shot and killed the alligator.

SAVES KIDDIES FROM DOG BY LUSTY KICKS

Somerville Man Then Claps a Barrel Over Angry Animal Till Policeman Shoots It

Several Somerville children were saved from the savage attack of an infuriated mongrel dog by Charles L. Shea, who was attracted by the cries of the kiddies.

He left his office near the junction of Edgar and Heath streets and, diverting the dog's attention from the group of youngsters, began to kick the animal while the children ran to nearby doorways.

The dog sprang at Shea several times, but each time Shea stepped aside or met the attack with a kick. Later he clapped a barrel over the dog and held it prisoner until the arrival of Policeman P. J. Roche, who killed it with a bullet.

The children attacked were Madeline and Helen Caliger and Rita, Charles and Paul Franklin Driscoll.

CHARGES DESERTION IN PARIS DIVORCE SUIT

Paris, July 25 (Universal Cable).—Alleging desertion, Mrs. John Wolfe, formerly Mary B. Hudson Coffin, demanded a divorce in the Seine courts.

Mrs. Wolfe established a residence in an apartment here a few months ago, while her husband lived in a small hotel in the Latin quarter.

It is gossiped in society that Mrs. Julius Fleischman plans to marry Jay O'Brien in Paris next month, in spite of recent denials. The mystery of the whereabouts of O'Brien was cleared up when he was seen, accompanied by Mrs. Fleischman, dancing at the Chateau Madrid and other fashionable places recently.

MOTORMAN WHOSE CAR KILLED TWO IS FREED

William Magoon of No. 108 Flash road, Nahant, motorman of the trolley car that killed Violet MacNeil, of No. 20 West Baltimore street, Lynn, and fatally injured her companion, Clifford Williams of Merrimac, a private at Fort Banks, was found not guilty on two counts of manslaughter and discharged by Judge Southwick in Nahant police court.

It was testified the couple stepped suddenly from behind another trolley into the path of that operated by Magoon.

DEMANDS ARREST OF POLICE IN RUM PLOT

Chicago, July 25.—Warrants for the arrest of a police captain and three of his men were sworn out by C. W. Vursell, chief prohibition enforcement agent, following the arrest by city officers of three prohibition agents returning to Chicago with a truckload of beer. The officers said they thought the agents were beer runners with bogus badges and refused them after other agents had been sent to the scene. Vursell said he would ask Chief of Police Collins for a definite statement on prohibition department. He recently received assurances of cooperation from Collins.

GERMANY SEES NEW CHANCE TO NEGOTIATE

Berlin, July 25.—"Satisfactory for the moment" is the cautious judgment expressed in government circles over the official statement from the London conference regarding the invitation to Germany to participate. The fact that Germany will not be faced with an ultimatum "but will have a chance to negotiate" is believed will considerably strengthen the hands of the government.

PELHAM CARNIVAL DRAWS BIG CROWD

Pelham, N. H., July 25.—When residents of this town start anything they go through with it well. This was demonstrated in the community carnival, which closed last evening on the grounds of the Pelham Congregational Church.

The affair, in aid of the church, was a big success from the financial standpoint, and combined many attractions, foremost of which was a greased pig.

"TOOTS" MURRAY IS READY TO GIVE UP

Providence, July 25.—Counsel for William "Toots" Murray, the man sought for the placing of the gas bomb in the Rhode Island Senate chamber on June 19, announced that his client would be produced in court when wanted by the Rhode Island authorities.

The accusation of Murray was made following a four hour conference between Attorney-General Carpenter, City Solicitor Elmer S. Chase of Providence, and Judge Frederick Rueckert of the Sixth district court.

MEMORIAL COMMITTEE REPORTS SURPLUS

The committee which erected the Edwin U. Curtis memorial on the Esplanade reported that after payment of all expenses, a balance of $1,318.82 remains. This probably will be turned over to the State for use by the Metropolitan District Commission in caring for the memorial.

BURNED CHILD SHOWN AS EVIDENCE IN SUIT

ELAINE ARONSON

Seven months old Brookline girl, whose father claims she was burned while at the Commonwealth Avenue Hospital, after her birth. She was produced in court in the $10,000 damage suit brought by the father against the hospital and her burns were shown to the judge.

3 ARE DROWNED, 2 SAVED IN N. E. WATERS

A girl and two men were drowned and a woman and youth escaped death by a hair's breadth in twenty-four hours in the waters of New England.

At Methuen, Marjorie Moore, twenty-one years old, was drowned in the Merrimac river, while her sister, Alice, was being rescued by Leonard Lagrossa, with whom the girls were swimming.

At Biddeford, Me., Martin Fogelman, twenty-five years old, a chauffeur of Boston, was seized with heart failure while swimming 200 yards from shore. Henry Morton, a coast guardsman saw the plight of the swimmer and went to his assistance, but when he reached Fogelman he was dead.

The capsizing of a boat at Pavilion Beach, Gloucester, cost the life of Ralph Bowers, nineteen years old.

Resuscitation saved the life of Joseph Hogdan, ten years old, of No. 38 Warne street, Providence, after he was taken unconscious from the water by Michael Morin, forty years old, a conductor on a Pawtucket street car.

A pulmotor saved the life of Mrs. Percy Greenwood of Oakland street, Wellesley, after she had fallen from a raft in Jenning's Pond in the Overbrook section of Wellesley.

VETERAN LYNN POLICEMAN DEAD

Thomas L. McKenney, a member of the Lynn Police Department since 1882, died at his home, 24 Hodgen street, following a short illness after an operation. He was born in Lynn in 1857.

He and the uniform made the men grow. They fell again and again and ambulances were kept busy hauling them to the Lynn hospital.

Only two were hurt enough, however, to be held at the hospital. They are Private Hans Harrison, of Battery C, 62nd Coast Artillery and Private Arehi R. Benoit, of D. Company, First Engineers. The blaze cut a wide swath across the artillery camps.

DRY LAW REPEAL BEATEN IN NORWAY

Christiania, July 25 (Universal Cable).—King Haakon asked J. L. Mowinckel, the leader of the Left, to form new cabinet, following the resignation of the government of Premier Berge as a result of the fight over prohibition.

The attempt to repeal the dry law was defeated in both houses of parliament. The vote in the Lagthing, or Senate, was 32 to 16 against repealing the dry law.

It is expected that the new government will be named today.

BENTON TO AID R. I. BOMB PLOT PROBE

Attorney-General Jay R. Benton will co-operate with Attorney-General Herbert L. Carpenter of Rhode Island in investigating whether any Massachusetts persons, acting in this State, aided in the alleged placing of gas bombs in the Rhode Island Senate.

The Massachusetts Attorney-General will not engage in any investigation of the actions of the police in detaining Rhode Island officers who came into the State to investigate the alleged bomb plot.

JAPAN FROWNS ON SCHURMAN AS U. S. ENVOY

Washington, July 25.—The selection of Dr. Jacob Gould Schurman, now American minister at Pekin, to be United States ambassador to Japan in succession to former Ambassador Woods, has been delayed by the fact that Dr. Schurman has not yet been found persona grata to the Japanese government.

It is understood the name of Dr. Schurman was proposed to the Tokio government, and that even after the Japanese foreign office intimated some other appointee might be more acceptable, the American government continued its indorsement of Schurman.

In view of opposition of the Japanese government to the appointment, it is now believed the question of filling the ambassadorship will not be pressed immediately but allowed to its dormant perhaps until after the Fall elections.

It is reported from Pekin that Dr. Schurman is planning to visit the Argentine ambassador, Dr. Honorio Pueyrredon.

It was said at the embassy that the ambassador would be gone "about two years," but that he would be home for personal nature and had nothing to do with the difficulties he experienced with the immigration authorities when he landed recently in New York.

PICK THIRD ARBITER IN "L" PAY DISPUTE

Judge John D. McLaughlin of the Superior Court has been named chairman of the board of arbitration that will be called on to determine what wages shall be paid to the more than 7,000 union street railway employes of the "L" system for the months of this year and the first six months of next year.

Attorney J. D. M. Malcahy and J. H. McNary represent the company and men respectively, as arbitrators.

The contract under which the carmen are now working expired on July 1, so that wage findings of the board will, no doubt, be made retroactive to that date.

JUDGE RILEY RAPS "L" BUS LINE PLAN

The Boston Elevated wishes to abandon the operation of certain street car lines in Malden and substitute bus lines in their stead. The company's plan was given a hearing in the conference chamber of Malden City Hall in the accompaniment of many heated remarks.

The railway's representatives, General Manager Dana and Counsel H. Wars Barnum, were assailed by Judge Thomas P. Riley, who represented the opposition, the latter referring caustically to Malden's Chamber of Commerce, which favors the scheme of "1 per dent, head and 99 per cent. stomach."

FIND ALCOHOL CARGO IN BLAZING AUTO

South Portland, Me., July 25.—Forty gallon cans of alcohol were found in a touring car bearing Massachusetts number plate No. 412,169 after the machine took fire on Skunk Hill here and the flames were extinguished by the local department.

After the fire was extinguished and the car towed to a local garage, Robert Abbott, a South Portland police officer, searched it and in a false bottom, running from the engine to the hind axle, he found the load of liquor.

1 DEAD, 12 HURT IN MOTOR CRASHES

Somerville Man Is Death Victim; Four Women in Wilmington Accident

One man was killed and twelve persons, mostly children, were injured in motor accidents in Massachusetts during the past twenty-four hours.

George S. Stewart of No. 80 Mt. Vernon street, Somerville, died of injuries he received when his motorcycle failed to take a curve in the road about two miles from Ipswich. The motorcycle climbed an embankment, throwing Stewart out and he died within an hour at the Benjamin Stickney Cable hospital.

Richard Cronin, aged four, of No. 18 Westminster street, Lynn, was injured when he ran in front of the automobile of Robert Mason of No. 13 Sylvan street, Lynn. The youngster suffered internal injuries which will likely result in his death.

Wallace McDonald of No. 23 Spruce street, Lynn, and James Doyle of No. 61 Perkins street, Lynn, were cut and bruised when the machine in which they were riding, and driven by John W. McDonald, was struck by another machine driven by Charles Lamken of No. 11 South street, Lynn.

Four women were injured in a collision of the automobiles of Ernest Simard of Moss street, Newton and David Bilson of Manning street, North Chelmsford. The accident occurred at Perry's Corner near Wilmington. The injured were Miss Margaret McCuster of No. 1415 Tremont street, Roxbury, Miss Helena Mann of No. 3 Elliott Place, Roxbury; Miss Anna Higgins of No. 11 Kent street, Roxbury, and Miss Alice Wilson of No. 4 Centre street, Roxbury. The women all suffered head injuries.

MAYOR AIDS PLANS FOR CHURCH OUTING

The annual field day of the Church of Our Lady of Pompeii will be held tomorrow at Caledonian Grove, West Roxbury, with sports of all kinds in the afternoon and a display of fireworks and dancing in the evening. Music will be by Sicuro's Orchestra. The proceeds will be put into a fund for renovating and remodeling the former St. Stephen's Episcopal church, Tremont street, South End, acquired just before Christmas.

The pastor, the Rev. P. Di Milia, is assisted in conducting the field day by a committee of Boston men headed by Mayor Curley.

BOXER FIRPO VISITS ARGENTINE CONSUL

Washington, July 25.—Luis Angel Firpo, the Argentine heavyweight, arrived in Washington today to visit the Argentine ambassador, Dr. Honorio Pueyrredon.

It was said at the embassy that the boxer's visit was one of purely personal nature and had nothing to do with the difficulties he experienced with the immigration authorities when he landed recently in New York.

TODAY

Brooklyn in a little automobile to bring his son back home from "somewhere in Texas," and told the boy he would be gone "about three days." He will be surprised to find it will take him about as long to cross Texas as to cross all the rest of the American continent. When you've entered Texas on one side and come out on the other, you have covered almost half the distance from ocean to ocean.

Before the war the United States all told owed about $1,000,000,000. In Tom Reed's day the people were horrified at the thought of the nation spending $500,000,000 in two years. New York city alone will soon spend $5,000,000,000 a year and more later.

LIFE IS expensive here for the nation, individuals, States and cities. A preliminary budget indicates that it will cost $400,000,000 to run New York city in the coming year and that in spite of Mayor Hylan's fight for economy.

MYSTERIOUS WOMEN, POSING AS 'DRY' AGENTS, HOLD UP AUTOS

EVERY CAR SEARCHED BY PAIR

Federal Officials and Quincy Police Disclaim All Responsibility

Two women, representing themselves as prohibition agents are making life miserable for autoists driving over the cement road from South Braintree to Quincy.

The women, according to the stories told by two salesmen, not only stop automobiles passing over the road but the search of the machines is thorough and complete.

When a car approaches, the woman step into the road and stand firmly in the path of the machine.

Once the auto is stopped the woman proceed to search the machine from bumper to tail-light and not even the luggage carried in the car is exempt from the inspection.

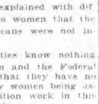
One salesman, carrying samples of shoe varnish and leather cement carried in cans, explained with difficulty to the two women that the contents of the cans were not intoxicating.

Quincy authorities know nothing about the women and the Federal officials declare that they have no knowledge of any women being assigned to prohibition work in this section of the State.

BOY REWARDED FOR FINDING CASH, GEMS

Little Donald A. Berrio, twelve years old, of No. 330 Center street, Newton, knew just what to do, when he found a purse containing a sum of money and some jewelry.

Young Donald is employed as a grocer's boy. While delivering orders he chanced upon a woman's pocketbook lying on the sidewalk near Newton Corner. He picked the bag up and turned it over to the police. It contained about $25 in cash and jewelry valued at several hundred dollars.



Donald A. Berrio

The police soon found the owner and restored the property to her. She was a New York woman visiting relatives at No. 15 Newtonville avenue, Newton. The boy received a fitting financial reward for his honesty.

SAMARIA DOCKS WITH HUB FOLK MONDAY

The Cunard liner Samaria was 1,140 miles east of Boston at noon yesterday and was expected to dock in East Boston about 11 a. m. Monday. She is bringing from Liverpool and Queenstown forty saloon, fifty-eight second cabin and forty-five third class passengers for Boston. On board are Miss Susan C. Amory, Dr. Augustus Thorndike and Mrs. Thorndyke, Elihu Thompson, Mrs. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Crocker, Mr. and Mrs. John Crocker and infant, Mr. and Mrs. R. SHENANDOAH FORCED INTO AIR AGAIN

Lakehurst, N. J., July 25 (I.N.S.).—After twice being brought to the ground on its return to the air station here after a successful 500-mile test flight the navy's big dirigible Shenandoah again took the air shortly before noon in an effort to fly around a storm approaching Lakehurst.

The first time the airship was brought down a fourteen-mile wind made it dangerous to attempt to put the craft in its hangar the commander went aloft and hovered over the field until daybreak when the vessel again was brought to the ground. A strong wind was still blowing and the ground crew, augmented by several hundred civilians and air station attaches, held the ship for several hours in hopes of it dying down.

ALBANY ROAD FIGHTS $1,500,000 BOND PLAN

The Boston & Albany Railroad Company has petitioned the Supreme Court to annul an order of the State Department of Public Utilities authorizing the New York Central to issue bonds to the amount of $1,500,000 on behalf of the Boston & Albany. The Boston & Albany claims the loan required the approval of its directors. It is claimed the order deprives the Boston & Albany of property without due process of law.

DIES WHEN RUM-LADEN AUTO TURNS TURTLE

Saranac Lake, N. Y., July 25.—Anthony Nell of Brooklyn was killed today when his liquor-laden automobile overturned between Rustic Lodge and Wawbeek in one of the wildest sections of the Adirondacks. The liquor was confiscated by the Tupper Lake Police.

CLEWS FAIL IN HUNT FOR SLAYER OF BOY

New York, July 25.—Police investigating the murder of Francis McDonnell, seven-year-old Staten Island boy, admitted today the crime probably would prove unsolvable. Ten days of search have resulted in practically nothing.

CASHIER'S WIFE READY TO FACE POVERTY

cashiership of the Estabrook Company.

From 9 in the morning until late in the afternoon he labored in his cage in the brokerage house. At all other times, in overalls and jumper, he worked on his invention. He planned to market his cans, to advertise them and eventually to give all his time to the can business.

OPENS FACTORY.

Then, according to his friends, he opened a small factory in Waltham.

Harding found a ready demand for his new oil can. It was adopted as part of the standard equipment of well known motor cars.

Fortune was smiling on young Harding.

He labored on at the banking house. If he confided in his superiors regarding his outside enterprise the facts were not generally known among his office cronies.

Throwing aside his office alpaca the young cashier-inventor his friends say each day would rush out to Waltham where with two or three assistants he worked until far into the night preparing his samples and turning out "O-No-Drip" and "Old-Rifle" for the trade.

BUSINESS EXPANDS.

The business grew and Harding found that he must seek larger space for his business. He must have an office too.

This was three and a half years ago. Harding rented a small office at No. 100 Boylston street. Here, after banking hours he planned a nation-wide advertising campaign. He planned employment of a force of salesmen. He rented the second floor of the brick factory building at 48 Grove street, Somerville.

At this juncture he gave thought, too, to capital.

His business must be financed. He must move money.

Estabrook & Co., bankers, today issued the following statement:

COVERED BY BOND.

"A short time ago it was discovered that Arthur S. Harding, one of our employes who has been with us for a number of years, was seriously short in his accounts with the firm. His employment with us was immediately terminated.

"Estabrook & Co. is fully covered by the bond of the National Surety Company and was immediately fully reimbursed for the loss suffered."

Police Inspectors Frank Haggerty and George Farrell arrested Harding on a complaint alleging larceny of $70,000 from Estabrook and Company. The young man was booked at headquarters, arraigned before Judge Loucks in Municipal Court and held in $25,000 for a hearing. He pleaded not guilty.

Unable to raise bail, he was taken to Charles Street Jail.

Meanwhile out at the oil can factory faithful employes swear by Harding. They told an American reporter today that their boss was a "wonder man" of business.

They told how his business, while suffering from depression, had risen to a peak where twenty-five men and women were employed.

The great national advertising had brought business rising to from $5,000 to $6,000 weekly. High-salaried salesmen sent in orders from all sections of the country.

The company is at present a "going concern," it was stated.

Harding's employes said today they would stand by their young chief. The "Arthur Harding Can" will be made and sold.

Harding is married and lives with his wife and four children at No. 24 Hayes street, Arlington. His wife is standing by him, confident that everything will turn out all right.

Harding was a native of East Boston and not his wife, who was Miss Grace Billman of Everett, when she was working in the same office as a stenographer.

The couple have been married eight years. They occupy a two family house at No. 22 Hayes street, Arlington, and lived simply and unpretentiously. Harding's whole life was devoted to his family and to building up a business of his own.

DIAGRAM OF "SHUT OFF" CAN.

New type of oil can devised by Harding for machine and motor oils. It couldn't leak. Diagram shows interior of can which released its contents in an easy and steady flowing stream which could be stopped at will by soft pressure on the thin bronze bottom, as shown in illustration, the plunger closing the spout automatically. In contrast is shown the can as it looks when completed. Fortune was smiling on Harding when he ran short of funds and is alleged to have committed larceny to procure money to continue his business.

PLANS FUNERAL AND THEN HANGS HIMSELF

Madrid, July 25 (I.N.S.).—Senor Hogue, a merchant dwelling on suicide, visited his relatives and invited them to attend his funeral, which he said would be held today. Then he went to an undertakers, where he purchased a casket and made arrangements for the funeral. After visiting a municipal judge and requesting him to call later for his body he went to his home and hanged himself.

NEW VIKING YACHT REACHES ICELAND

New York, July 25.—The forty-foot yacht Leif Erikson, which with four men aboard is following from Norway on the trail taken in the new world by the vikings, has arrived at Vestmannaeyjart, Iceland. The yacht will proceed down the Atlantic coast to New York.

VESSEL SUNK OFF RUM ROW; CREW SAVED

Newport, R. I., July 25.—The 138-ton steam freighter Mabel L. Barton of New York foundered off Block Island today, when her port tail shaft broke.

The crew of thirteen took to the boats and were picked up by the steamer Stephen A. Boyle. Later they were transferred to the Goffe, which landed them here. They lost all their effects.

The scene of the sinking is Rhode Island's "Rum Row." Enforcement officials indicated they saw no reason why they should investigate reports that 1,200 cases of liquor also went down.

ELECTION GOING TO HOUSE, SAYS HAPGOOD

Worcester, July 25.—Norman Hapgood, editor of Hearst's International, says the Presidential election is almost certain to be thrown into the House of Representatives.

Addressing the Rotary Club, he said: "The third party will screw honesty in the coming campaign. They will try to show that the candidates of both old parties represent Wall Street. They will assume that the only salvation of the bulk of the people is in La Follette.

"This year there will not be the question of foreign policy, for all three are convinced of the wisdom of feeling our way carefully in European affairs. The social point of view will form the basis of the campaigning."

Of the conventions, he said the Republican and La Follette conventions were dull, but purposeful, while the Democratic convention was dramatic, exciting and largely devoted to superficial issues.

TRUCKMAN CRUSHED BY SHUTTER; MAY DIE

William Hickey, 24 years old, of No. 8 Bellflower street, Dorchester, is in a critical condition at the City Hospital with a crushed left hip and abdomen. Hickey, a chauffeur for William E. Cobb & Sons of No. 485 Atlantic avenue was loading his truck in the rear of No. 330 Congress street when he was struck by an ice tubutter that had come hurtling through the air.

ASKS MASSACHUSETTS TO RATIFY CHILD LABOR

Ratification of the child labor amendment to the Federal Constitution by the Legislature of 1925 is asked for by Representative Hugh H. Garrity, Democrat, of South Boston, in a resolution filed by him with the clerk of the House of Representatives today. By direction of the General Court the question will appear on the ballot in November.

BROCKTON BOYS BURNED IN AUTO TANK BLAST

Brockton, July 25.—Dropping matches into the gas tank of an old automobile standing in a yard in Plymouth street may prove fatal to Alphonse Phillis, fourteen, of No. 65 Plymouth street, and Thomas Rodolpheie, eleven, of No. 63 Plymouth street. The tank exploded.

COMPLETE JURY FOR TRIAL OF FALLON

New York, July 25.—After five days of examination of talesmen the jury which is to try William J. Fallon, attorney, for jury bribing, was completed today.

FREE OIL NOW IN WAR IN CHELSEA

Quart With Every Gallon of 'Gas' Offered by Dealers

A quart of oil free with every purchase of gasoline.

This is the report of garage and gasoline station owners in Chelsea to Mayor Lawrence F. Quigley's municipal gasoline stations.

The decision was reached at a meeting of representatives of the big oil companies and Chelsea "gas" dealers held in the Chelsea Square Garage on Park street, that city.

They deliberated for more than two hours on various methods to stop the increasing sales of gasoline at seventeen cents a gallon and oil at twelve cents a quart in Mayor Quigley's station.

Legal action and appeals to the governor were discarded for the above ideas offered by a Chelsea dealer.

10,000 GALLONS A DAY.

For the last three days more than ten thousand gallons of gasoline and five hundred gallons of oil have been sold at the mayor's station of Fifth street.

The business of the Chelsea dealers has almost come to a standstill, while at the mayor's station, from seven in the morning until nine in the evening, a steady line of automobiles, from "Flivvers" to limousines and trucks, waited more than twenty minutes each to get the "gas" at reduced prices.

Mayor Quigley attended the meeting of the Chelsea dealers, but made no comments while there. Later the mayor declared that the decision of the oil companies to give a quart of oil with every purchase of gasoline will have no effect on his purpose.

TO OPEN MORE STATIONS.

"I intend to sell gasoline at my stations until the price of gasoline is lowered," said the mayor. "I will open two more stations tomorrow afternoon. One will be located on Broadway avenue and the other on Park street.

By the unprecedented number at Chelsea citizens coming to buy gasoline at my station I am sure that I have their support for my project. They will stick with me to the end. The action of the dealers makes it more interesting. It will be a war to the end."

HURLER OF BLUEBERRY PIE PAYS FINE OF $15

Throwing a blueberry pie into the face of a coinier man at a lunch room in Perkins square, east John Conroy, twenty-six years old, of No. 4 Parkway, South Boston, $15 in South Boston Court.

Another man, who, during the fracas at the place, hurled a salt cellar and smashed the show case got away. Judge Logan told the defendant that if any more complaints were received by him of trouble in the lunch room, which have become more frequent of late, he would mete out jail sentences to the offenders.

ACCUSE GUARDS OF FLOGGING PRISONERS

Spartanburg, S. C., July 25.—Mass flogging was set in motion today for a far-reaching probe of an alleged prison camp flogging when a Grand Jury here prepared to call two prison camp captains named in charges made by S. B. Wilson, a former camp guard.

The captains are W. C. Calvert, in charge of the prison gang near Boiling Springs, and P. P. Casey of the Converse gang.

Three youths were named in Wilson's charges as having been unmercifully beaten. The boys were Ben Nicholson, William Worrell and Simon Williams.

BELGIANS TO HELP BUILD CHINESE LINE

Peking, July 25 (A.P.).—A contract has been entered into by Ho Hsi-hai and Chinese bankers for financing the extension of the Lunghai Railway from Chengchow to Sianfu. The line will be managed by a Belgian-French loan in Europe for the purchase of materials, and the Chinese $5 million loan in China for construction work.

COMMONS PASSES HOUSING MEASURE

London, July 25 (A.P.).—The House of Commons today passed the third reading of the government's housing bill after the opposition's motion of rejection had been defeated by 328 to 131.

courage and nerve the execution will probably take place Tuesday morning or later. Other conditions may bring about a decision to electrocute Vandenhecke just after midnight Sunday.

Thomas H. Robbins, Belgium consulate Boston, today notified Herman A. MacDonald, secretary to Governor Cox, that he had withdrawn his request for a reprieve for Vandenhecke.

Mr. Robbins had made an informal request that the Governor grant a reprieve in order that an investigation might be made in an attempt to secure new evidence which would warrant the court granting a new trial.

BOY BURNS TO DEATH IN FATHER'S BARN

Bangor, Me., July 25.—Clifford Prouty, Jr., four-year old, son of Clifford Prouty of Veazie, was burned to death in his father's barn, which was on fire when the boy entered it.

Several tons of hay in the barn made a fierce fire for a time.

The origin of the fire is unknown. The barn, the ell of the house and part of the main house were burned.

46 MINISTERS TO BECOME LABORERS

Tifton, Georgia, July 25.—Forty-six priests of the Georgian Orthodox Church have abandoned their pastorates in order to live the life of laborers. They have asked the soviet government to give them land, so they "can do some honest toil as the Twelve Apostles of the mission and State." In renouncing their ecclesiastical vows, they declared that they had forgiven religion did not accord with the realities of life.

BANDITS GET $800 IN RAID ON BANK

Cleveland, O., July 24.—Bandits robbed the office of the Depositors' Savings and Loan Co. on the West Side, escaped with approximately $800, according to reports to police after locking Frank L. Thurber, assistant secretary, in the office vault. Thurber was alone in the office when the gunmen entered.

REDMOND LOSES RIGHT TO DO BROKERAGE

Public Utilities Board Takes Away License; Also Withington's

After one of the shortest hearings on record, the State Department of Public Utilities today revoked the brokerage licenses of George F. Redmond & Co., Inc., and Withington & Co.

Redmond was found guilty by a jury of conspiracy and of using the mails in a scheme to defraud. Withington was a Redmond subsidiary.

"Does anyone appear to protest the revocation of these licenses?" asked Chairman Henry C. Atwill of the department in opening the hearing.

No reply being received, the chairman instructed the secretary to issue an order of revocation.

Racing Pigeons Now Interest Nort' Shore Society

By BETTY ALDEN

GORDON MEANS and Harry Pratt McKean have a hobby.

They are both interested in pigeon racing—so much so that they have imported racing pigeons.

Mr. Means—whose marriage to Mrs. Grafton Minot was an important, if quietly solemnized, ceremony of the Spring—has had a very elaborate domicile for his prize specimens built at "The Alhambra," his Pride's Crossing estate on Mingo Beach.

The structure is quite the latest word in dovecotes. Each bird has its own "private apartments," as well as superb view of the ocean below.

That Harry McKean of Beverly Farms should be interested in racing pigeons is not at all surprising, for the master of "Willow Tree Farm" has on his estate all manner of birds, from haughty roosters to fluffy ducklings.

As a matter of fact, a large chicken industry is carried on at "Willow Tree Farm." Mr. McKean has won many prizes for his fancy fowl, and each year sends about sixty birds over to Manhattan for the show at Madison Square Garden.

To return to Mr. McKean's racing pigeons, he has one bird which can make twice as good time as Zev, and proved it by flying 300 miles in 244 minutes on a hot day.

Both the master of "Willow Tree Farm" and his wife, the former Bessie Lee, are among the most popular members of the younger sport-loving set, making their homes on the Shore the year around.

IT'S really up to the weather man now to determine the success of the Rainbow fete which society is staging tomorrow at "Hyman Farm," the William H. Coolidge estate at Magnolia.

Mary Post

Those in charge of the affair have planned a highly diverting program and only a cloudburst could prevent a steady stream of silver coins from jingling their way into the coffers of the Boston Children's Friend Society.

Among the fair women of the Shore whom Miss Louise Fosenden has enrolled as a waitress for the occasion is Miss Mary Post, older daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Post of "Uplands," Beverly Farms.

CANDLER'S SONS SUED IN ROW OVER NOTE

Accuser Says He Was Humiliated When Attempt Was Made to Take It

Atlanta, July 25.—Asa G. Candler, Jr., and Walter T. Candler were made defendants in a $25,000 suit filed by attorneys for Clyde K. Byfield in Decatur, Ga.

The suit asks damages for alleged humiliation and damage suffered when the Candlers made an attempt to forcibly take a note for $20,000 from Byfield.

The suit grew out of an incident alleged to have occurred aboard the steamship Berengaria, when Mrs. Byfield was alleged to have been attacked in her stateroom by Walter T. Candler.

The petition for damages sets out that the prosecutor, at the request of Candler, went to his office here, where he is said to have been offered a check in settlement for the note, for alleges Candler gave him after the attack upon Mrs. Byfield. His refusal, the petition asserts, to accept the check resulted in the Candlers trying to take the note by force.

TRAPPED PORCUPINE WAS CHICKEN THIEF

North Adams, July 25.—A new sort of a chicken thief has been discovered in the Berkshires. Mathew Miller, a local farmer, saying that he had caught a large porcupine, which he believes is responsible for numerous fowl missed from his yard. Failing to solve the mystery of where his chickens were going, Miller set a trap near one of the coops and this morning he found in it one of the biggest porcupines ever seen in this region.

'GRANDMA' ELINOR GLYN GIVES DEFINITION OF PERFECT LOVE

'WOMEN STARVING FOR AN INTELLECTUAL MAN'

By KATHRYN LIEBMAN

New York, July 25.—Elinor Glyn is in New York from Hollywood with one suit case and a maid, on a four-day business trip.

She explained her unusual impediments in a suite at the Hotel Ambassador as she sank upon a lounge and apologized for appearing in a dressing gown. She said:

"It's very difficult to have a large variety of clothes when one lives in a traveling bag. But one traveling bag conduces to easier journeys."

The green of the satin kimono was reflected in her long dahvow eyes and loops of light auburn hair showed beneath her lace boudoir cap. Those black fringed eyes laughed as she said:

"I don't look much like a grandmother, do I? I haven't a gray hair and the color is natural, you you know."

IN EXCELLENT SPIRITS.

Mrs. Glyn was in excellent spirits. She added:

"The man and woman I created in my novel are sublime because they experience a perfect love. What is perfect love? The development of mental, spiritual and physical love to its highest point. Perfect love means sacrifice."

It is the mental-spiritual phase of love that is lacking in most modern marriages, says Mrs. Glyn. That is due, in most part, to the husbands. This she explained by saying:

"The American woman is more highly cultured than the man. She thinks and reads while the man is absorbed in business. The result is that after the first bloom of love has worn away there is nothing to take its place.

"Women are starving for intellectual companionship which their husbands cannot give them."

The famous author will return to California to start work on her new picture in which a Russian prince, a friend, will be starred.

Mrs. Glyn is a person from whose lips one never hears a colloquialism or an ill-chosen word. She speaks with a pronounced English accent in a smooth and rapid fashion.

SMILES WITH HER EYES.

When she smiles it is only with her eyes, which contrast strangely with the paleness of her skin.

The green eyes narrowed rather fiercely as she asked:

"Why do you think people who process to love each other become jealous? Perfect love does not include jealousy, and it is dangerous to try to arouse it. If a man flirts with another woman to pique his wife, it is very likely that the pettiness of his nature will ruin her love for him.

"Love is a very delicate thing and women must od the most in order to keep it alive. Women must never forget that men were made to forage for food and they to love.

"To women love is the greatest thing in life. To man it is but a recreation. His business and his sports come first, that is, after the courtship is over.

MUST BE TACTFUL.

"The way to insure perfect love is for the woman to exert tact. And for that I have a very simple formula: when a man's mind is occupied by something in which only a man's mind can be interested, the woman should not interrupt with things in which only a woman's mind can be interested."

Mrs. Glynn evinced disgust when questioned about the life of the young girls of today. She sighed a bit at the recollection of the unpainted, unkissed girl of twenty years ago, and bewailed the fact that women had lost their sense of delicacy and that there was no more mystery about them.

Then she spoke of divorces:

"There would be many less unhappy marriages if divorces were not so easily obtained. Young people do not stop to think, for subconsciously they know that if they don't like marriage they can get out of it.

"In this day of restlessness and automobiles and airplanes, I think the divorce is a part of the scheme of things. There will probably be more and more within the next few generations. But eventually I believe that condition will straighten itself out and things will happen as nature intended."

"American girls are brought up to believe that they are of more importance than the men. In England the man is conceded to be the more important. In America a girl has no duties. In England a girl is brought up to attend to tasks that are unpleasant and boresome. She accepts these without complaint."

Elinor Glyn Explains Unhappy Marriages

Elinor Glyn, famous writer, says:

AMERICAN women are unhappy in marriage because they are more intelligent than their husbands.

Jealousy is not a part of love.

To women love is everything; to men only a recreation.

Be tactful; don't interrupt your husband with bits of feminine conversation when he is busy thinking about business or sports.

Divorces will grow in number in the next few years.

American heiresses are not happy with English nobility because they have no sense of duty.

The mental-spiritual phase of love is lacking in most modern marriages.

Love is a very delicate thing, and women must do the most in order to keep it alive.

There would be many less unhappy marriages if divorces were not so easily obtained.

In America a girl has no duties. In England a girl is brought up to attend to tasks that are unpleasant and boresome.

VACCINATION OF CHILDREN IS DOCTOR'S PLEA

Reports of smallpox cases in Connecticut and one or two other points in New England revealed the fact that there were three mild cases in Brockton recently and that all the patients are recovering.

Dr. George H. Bigelow, director of the contagious diseases department of the State Board of Health, today said there was not the slightest indication or danger of an outbreak of the malady and at the same time took occasion to warn the public against the growing indifference to vaccination.

"The number of children entering public schools with certificates exempting them from vaccination is increasing," said Dr. Bigelow. "That is a serious matter and a condition which should be corrected. Vaccination is a safeguard and the public should be educated to the fact. The tendency to shun vaccination has become marked of late.

"Parents should see that their children are vaccinated, especially in mill and similarly congested communities where there are shifting populations.

"According to our information the three mild cases of small pox in Brockton appeared more like chicken pox. There should be no guessing. In doubtful cases competent physicians should be called in."

RUM-RUNNERS NOW USE ARMORED AUTOS

St. Albans, Vt., July 25.—A roadster, that had come down from Canada with a cargo of beer, was found to have been provided with a shield for the driver against gunfire when it was brought here by prohibition enforcement agents.

Examination showed that the cowl had been built up with sheet iron.

The agents, mounted on motorcycles, had run the car down near Montpelier. The driver escaped. There was no report of any shots having been fired, but in other cases recently shots have been exchanged.

DUNCAN GIRLS' BROTHER TO WED

Chicago, July 25.—Harold Duncan, twenty-one, brother of Rosetta and Vivian Duncan (Topsy and Eva), the actresses, will marry Miss Marjorie Wright, twenty, of Webster, N. Y., Sunday. The wedding originally set for early in July was delayed because of the encounter, July 4, of the Duncans with police of Cicero. Miss Rosetta and Harold were injured in the encounter.

LID PUT ON LINER BOSTON INQUIRY

Providence, July 25.—The public is to know nothing of the cause of the collision between the coastwise liner Boston and the tanker Swift Arrow off Point Judith early Tuesday morning until the official investigation is completed.

Orders have been received from Washington that the officials of the steamboat inspection service, who are to conduct the official inquiry into the collision, refrain from making any of their findings.

LID ON AT CAPITAL.

The Internal Revenue Department at Washington, has also clamped the lid down on any publicity in connection with the findings of the government officials and Collector Frank A. Page has been instructed to refuse all information to the press concerning his investigations.

The officers and members of the crew of the two vessels will appear here next week before the steamboat inspection service officials. They will tell all they know concerning the collision and the condition that lead up to it.

Captain Uhler, chief of the steamboat inspection service in Washington, will receive the reports of his inspectors and the matter of making these reports public will be entirely in his hands.

MUCH SPECULATION.

Up until this time the steamboat inspection officials and the Internal Revenue Department officials were permitted to use their own discretion in issuing public the facts learned in connection with maritime mishaps.

While the new order sealing the lips of the officials is said to have no particular significance in connection with the collision between the Boston and the Swift Arrow, yet there is much speculation as to just what brought about the order at this particular time.

BEACON STREET TO BE PARTLY ONE-WAY

One-way traffic only will be permitted on Beacon street between Charles and Dowdoin streets between 8:30 a. m. and 9:45 a. m., according to new traffic regulations in effect today.

The closing of this street to westbound traffic and the decision of the Metropolitan district commission to keep the Harvard bridge open to one-way traffic constitute regulations that will affect thousands of motorists daily.

The westbound traffic that formerly used Beacon street during the morning hours will hereafter be routed through Somerset street, Ashburton place, State House archway and Mt. Vernon street.

LORD DERBY'S HORSE WINS LIVERPOOL CUP

Liverpool, Eng., July 25.—Lord Derby's Pharos today won the Liverpool cup with stakes of £2,000. Baton Rouge, second, Cockpit, third. Pharos won by six lengths and a half length separated second and third. Twelve ran.

BALL PLAYERS FOR CHURCH SERVICE

Pastor Cutbill to Use Game to Illustrate Religious Points

West Boxford, July 24.—The Rev. Harold C. Cutbill, known as "the flying parson," who is acting pastor of the West Boxford Congregational Church, has arranged for continuous Sunday of the series of "baseball services" he began so successfully a week ago.

For the next service at 10:30 a. m. Sunday he will feature baseball and, an invitation, Manager William McDonough and his Lawrence Independents, champions of the first half of the Boston Twilight League series, will attend in uniform.

The Rev. Mr. Cutbill will discuss in his sermon the relation of athletics to religion. It is planned that after the service the Independents will illustrate some fine points made by the preacher with a demonstration in a field adjacent to the church.

KILLS WIFE AS SHE SEEKS DIVORCE

Slayer Tries to Kill Another Woman and Then Shoots Himself

Watervliet, N. Y., July 25.—Henry Leroy Adams of this city today shot and killed his wife Anna and then shot himself through the heart, inflicting a fatal wound. Adams fired first at his wife from a camp prayer meeting grounds as she was waiting for a trolley car.

He then pursued her to the home of Mrs. Marjorie Corcobran where he shot her to death through the door of a cloths closet.

Mrs. Adams was on her way to visit a Troy attorney relative to obtaining a divorce at the time.

After he had shot his wife, Adams turned his revolver upon Mrs. Corcobran but she stepped behind his invalid mother and was spared.

Teherin Ill

Moscow, July 25 (U.N.S.).—M. Teherin, Soviet official, is seriously ill, it was learned today when orders were issued that he could not receive visitors.

12 FELLED FIGHTING BLAZ AT DEVENS

Camp Devens, July 25.—More than a dozen soldiers were overcome by smoke and intense heat while fighting a fire which burned over 1,000 acres on the artillery range and for a time threatened to destroy the entire camp.

More than 500 soldiers fought the blaze during the greater part of the day.

STRANGLER PLANS TO CHEAT DEATH CHAIR WITH BLUDGEON

HOPE GONE, FILIPINO DIES FOR SLAYING WHITE NURSE

Ossining, N. Y., July 25.—In the heart of Eulogio Lozade, whose love for a white girl led him on and on to murder, hope died hard.

When they looked into his cell in the death house in Sing Sing, two hours before the time set for his execution, he was kneeling as if in prayer.

But a guard, noting something peculiar in the pose, went in and prodded him to his feet, and under him they found a crude hand-fashioned bludgeon with which he had hoped to batter his way to liberty while they were marching him to the chair.

It was taken away from him. With it went the last shred of hope in the heart of the volcanic little Filipino.

"I shall die now," he told Father Cashin. "I am a poor man, and a dark man. There is no further hope."

At the hour set, he died, in the electric chair, and the law was done with the strangler of Blossom Martin.

Miss Martin was a nurse in the employ of a New York physician, and in appearance a fine, wholesome type of American girl. She was athletic and strong and she smiled in derision on the suit of the stunted Filipino.

Evidence brought out at his trial showed that she had a more favored suitor. When he learned of it, the Filipino's love changed to hatred.

On June 8, 1922, he came upon her in a quiet room in the home of the physician who employed them both, and strangled her.

Then he wrapped her body up, mummy-fashion, and put her body in a sack. He taxied the sack to a ferryboat and tried to throw it into the waters off Staten Island.

FORD UNDECIDED ON LOCATION OF PLANT

Edsel Ford, son of the Detroit automobile wizard and president of the Ford Motor Company, isn't entirely sure that the New England assembling branch of his firm will be located in Boston.

The younger Ford and his wife are at the Copley-Plaza, having come here by boat from New York city. They are to go to their Summer home in Seal Harbor, Maine.

Mayor Curley, who has labored assiduously to have the Ford branch located in the Hub is still sanguine that the ultimate decision will be in favor of this city, but young Ford has so far failed to give the Mayor definite encouragement.

DEATH TAKES ONE OF EVERETT TRIPLET BOYS

MRS. MacDONALD AND HER SONS

The triplets were born to Mrs. MacDonald at the Malden Maternity Hospital. The remaining two are healthy and active and probably will survive.

REMAINING TWO PROBABLY WILL LIVE

Two of the three sons born yesterday to Mrs. Frank MacDonald of Everett in the Malden Maternity Hospital will live.

The third, and youngest, died today, after blood transfusion had been effected in an attempt to save his life. The triplet that died weighed only three pounds and thirteen ounces.

The eldest of the three weighed four pounds and five ounces at birth and the second four pounds and one ounce.

Nurses at the hospital said today that the two surviving youngsters were as healthy and active as babies of their age ever were, and were showing an interest in food which argued that they planned to remain for a long while.

Mrs. MacDonald, who is only twenty-one years old, was in good physical condition today, although naturally depressed by the death of her youngest born. They are the first children of the young couple, who live at No. 816 Main street, Everett.

Mr. MacDonald is an advertising solicitor employed by the Boston American.

WORLD FLIERS' SUPPLY SHIP 'MISSING'

By FRANCIS J. TIETSORT.
Special Wireless to Universal Service
(Copyright, 1924, by Universal Service.)

Aboard the U. S. Cruiser Milwaukee, Pictou, N. S., July 25.—Efforts to communicate by radio from this ship with the Danish steamer Gertrude Rask, chartered to carry fuel and supplies to the world fliers at Angmagsalik, were unsuccessful.

The Milwaukee arrived here one day late because of the dense fog encountered off the Nova Scotia coast. The cruiser was to lay three landing buoys today and then proceed to Hawkes Bay, Newfoundland.

The Rask was ordered to reach her destination by August 1 and is now en route from Copenhagen.

If the Rask cannot get through from Severn in thirty miles of mush ice, the navy must take other measures to get supplies to the flyers off the Greenland coast. There will be none of the indispensable mooring facilities at Angmagsalik until the Rask arrives.

The Danish steamer Dannery is due to arrive at Ivigtut, the last hopping off place for the fliers, by August 6. The Dannery is bringing supplies also, and while her arrival is important it is not vital, as other arrangements can be made.

The destroyers sailing from Newport are to raise smoke screens from their stations across the Atlantic, so that the world fliers will never be out of the sight of destroyers all the way if the weather is clear.

Landing buoys with pennants for each plane were made up on board the Milwaukee under the direction of Commander L. C. Causey, executive officer of the ship. They will be placed in the water at Pictou as soon as we arrive there.

Lieutenant Clayton Bissell, advance base supplies officer in Canada, said that radio advices aboard ship were that the flight of Lieutenant Lowell Smith and his partners from Hull, England, for the Orkneys will be resumed Monday, July 28.

British Flier Ready to Start Hop Across Pacific

Tokio, July 25.—A Stuart MacLaren, British round-the-world flier, and his three companions, have arrived at Petropavlosk, capital of the Russian province of Kamachatka, a peninsula north of Kuriles Island and almost directly across the Pacific from Prince Rupert, Canada.

Rome, July 25.—Lieutenant Locatelli, Italian aviator, hopped off today on a round-the-world flight from Pisa. He will fly to Brough, England, and will accompany the American fliers across the Atlantic.

Amsterdam, July 25.—Bad weather today again delayed the departure of Major Zanni, Argentine aviator, and his two companions, who are planning a round-the-world flight over an eastward route. They plan to go from here to Rome via Le Bourget Air Field, near Paris.

Portugueses Airmen Return Via Seattle

Honolulu, July 25 (A.P.).—The Portuguese aviators, Lieutenants Belrosand Paes, who flew from Lisbon to Shanchai, near Hong Kong, damage to their airplane preventing their continuing, are returning to Europe. A despatch from the Governor of Macao to the Portuguese consul general here says the aviators are sailing from Hong Kong to Seattle.

LA FOLLETTE'S COUSIN SEEKS CONGRESS SEAT

COFFEE SOARS 145 POINTS IN A WEEK

New York, July 25.—Further covering of short lines in coffee, mainly by European interests who were caught by the unexpectedly strong spot situation as a result of the insurrection in Brazil, advanced July contracts 76 points today to 17.10. This represents fully 145 points advance this week and a new high level for the season. Trading in July will cease at the close today.

MOSES AND COOLIDGE TO DISCUSS CAMPAIGN

Washington, July 25.—Senator George H. Moses, chairman of the Republican Senatorial campaign committee, will confer early next week with President Coolidge and other Republican leaders. It has been tentatively determined that the senatorial committee will establish headquarters at Chicago. Senator Moses already has surveyed conditions in two or three States where Republican senatorial candidates are to run this year, and has plans prepared to present to the conference.

POLITICS---The 1924 Campaign

DAVIS REFERS TO PETERS AND POLICE STRIKE

Dark Harbor, Islesboro, Me., July 25 (Universal).—John W. Davis, Democratic standard bearer, visiting here at the home of Charles Dana Gibson, discussed campaign plans with Andrew J. Peters, former mayor of Boston, William R. Pattangall, Democratic candidate for Governor of this State, and former Senator Willard Saulsbury of Delaware.

In telling of the visit of Mr. Peters, Mr. Davis referred to the action of President Coolidge when he was Governor of Massachusetts in stopping the Boston police strike.

"Wasn't Mr. Peters mayor of Boston at the time of the strike?" Mr. Davis was asked.

"Yes, he was the man who was carrying the ball down the field," Mr. Davis replied.

"When it was taken away from him," the reporters suggested.

"Yes," Mr. Davis assented, with a smile.

Pattangall was a leader of the anti-klan faction at the recent New York convention and one of those most insistent that the Klan be mentioned by name in the party.

DISMISSED KLAN.

Any hope he might have had that Davis would discourse at length on the Klan in his acceptance speech was dispelled by the nominee.

Mr. Davis declared the Klan question had been settled by the convention long before he was nominated and that it now was "a matter of history."

"The Democratic national convention is the supreme court of the party," he told newspaper correspondents, "and from it there can be no appeal. You can't draw me out on that question."

L. A. COOLIDGE QUIZZES WALSH ABOUT WHEELER

Louis A. Coolidge, candidate for the Republican nomination for senator, issued a statement calling on Senator David I. Walsh to declare whether he stands with Davis and Bryan or with La Follette and Wheeler. Referring to the recent announcement by Senator Wheeler that he will speak for Walsh in this State, Mr. Coolidge asks if the Bay State Senator will accept support from such "apostles of unrest, protagonists of centralized authority, advocates of inquisitorial laws, of unbridled democracy and of anarchy which will result in tyranny."

President's Advisor, Lucey, May Run for Legislature

Northampton, July 25.—James Lucey, shoemaker, staunch friend and early advisor of President Coolidge, may yield to the urging of friends to become a candidate for the Republican nomination for Representative to the Legislature.

It became known today that he has agreed to do so provided the names on his nomination papers show unquestioned support.

This will be his first venture in politics.

LA FOLLETTE TO SEEK DOLLAR CONTRIBUTIONS

Washington, July 25 (I. N. S.).—Within twenty-four hours after his appointment, the "board of strategy" of the La Follette-Wheeler Presidential drive held its first meeting here today and formally set the Progressives campaign in motion.

Plans to raise a campaign "war chest" of at least $3,000,000, drafted by Henry H. Rosenfelt of New York, were accepted by the committee. It was decided that the drive for this fund would be directed chiefly among labor unions, farm organizations, the Socialist party, independent political groups and the general public in the form of "dollar contributions."

Labor Day was set as the time for firing the first heavy campaign speeches of the drive. It was declared that both Senators La Follette and Wheeler would make their first important speeches on that day, La Follette being tentatively scheduled for New York; Wheeler in Boston. This arrangement, however, may be changed later.

The question of selecting State leaders for La Follette and Wheeler came in for consideration. A definite announcement of the names of these chiefs will be made next week.

How to get the names of La Follette and Wheeler on the ballots in the various States also was discussed.

Because every important question arising in the campaign must come before it for settlement the committee decided to hold sessions practically every day until after the election.

WARN COOLIDGE NOT TO IGNORE LA FOLLETTE

Washington, July 25. (Universal).—President Coolidge was told frankly by callers at the White House that it would be a serious blunder to ignore the independent ticket in the coming campaign.

The warning was voiced particularly by Representative Theodore E. Burton, of Ohio, keynoter at the Cleveland convention, which nominated Coolidge and Dawes.

Burton declared the electoral votes of Ohio would be given to Coolidge despite efforts of John W. Davis and Robert M. La Follette to prevent it.

The Congressman stated that his survey of conditions had convinced him the La Follette-Wheeler ticket would get a heavy vote in some of the agricultural States, and support from the German voters and from others who favor a modification of the Volstead act.

He pointed out that both of the old line parties and their candidates are on record in favor of the eighteenth amendment and its enforcement, while La Follette is known as a liberal on the liquor question.

Ira E. Robinson, former Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of West Virginia, told the President that despite the fact the Democratic nominee is a native son of West Virginia and extremely popular with all classes there, the State will give its electoral votes to the Republican candidate by a large majority.

Double Set of La Follette Candidates

New York, July 25.—Two sets of Congressional, State, Senatorial and Assembly candidates to run on the Presidential ticket headed by Senators La Follette and Wheeler, will be placed in the field. The first convention will be that of the Socialist party, beginning Saturday and lasting over Sunday.

The second will be that of the American Labor party, to be held here early in August. In order to have a place on the ballot, the American Labor party will use the emblem of the Socialist party, the latter party being the only group affiliated with the American Labor party which has legal standing in the State.

GYPSY BRIDE AT HOME; DISCARDS HUSBAND

Shows Black and Blue Back and Two Teeth Gone in Few Days of "Love"

Salem, July 25.—Broomstick bride no. not, fourteen-year-old Anni Butch is back with her own tribe of gypsies and never will return to the man who calls himself her husband.

Her father, who took her forcibly from the Stokes gypsies at Pelham Bay, N. Y., after she had complained of ill treatment, accompanied her home.

In the Butch camp in the woods near the Lynn line, there was rejoicing today. A great dinner was given in the girl's honor. She sat at the head of the table. Her mother gave her $400 in gold.

The Butch girl, according to the Pelham Bay gypsies, was married to Steve Stokes, a gypsy of Hungary, by the ancient ceremony of jumping over a broomstick.

Then she got word to her parents that she was being abused. Her father went to Pelham Bay and took her away from her husband after a knockdown and drag-out fight.

To prove that she was abused, the girl showed friends today where two teeth were missing, and exhibited black and blue marks on her back and arms.

ANNIE BUTCH

HUNDREDS ARE ASSISTED BY VETS' BUREAU

Hundreds of veterans of the World War are completely satisfied with the service of the American Soldiers' Friend Bureau at No. 199 Summer street, having availed themselves of the advice on adjusted compensation problems given free of charge by the bureau experts.

Come in, Mr. Veteran, if you are in doubt as to any phase of the bonus regulations, applications, finger-prints, etc.

The office is large and airy, the attaches of the bureau are courteous and polite. If you can't visit us, write us of your perplexities. Your letter will be promptly answered.

Here are some questions and answers:

PRIVATE E. B., Camp Devens.

Q.—During the World War I served from August 27, 1918 and was discharged January 30, 1919. Am I entitled to the Bonus and how much will it amount to?

A.—You served a total of 155 days. After deducting the first 60 days you will be entitled to a credit of $1 a day for home service and $1.25 a day for any overseas service. This sum when multiplied by 2½ will give you the approximate face value of the insurance certificate which you will receive.

L. C., MONTREAL.

Q.—I am a World War veteran with 3½ years service and was honorably discharged. Will you please answer the following questions:

1.—Is it necessary for me to go back to the United States to make application for the bonus and where can I obtain a blank?

2.—Did New York State give a State bonus?

3.—Is service in the Panama Canal considered overseas service or not?

A. 1. If you served in the United States forces during the World War and was discharged under honorable conditions, you will be eligible to make application for the bonus, and you need not return to the United States for that purpose. A bonus blank with instruction sheet is being mailed you.

2. The State of New York passed a bonus law, and if you were a resident of New York at the time you entered the United States service, write to the Adjutant General's office, Albany, N. Y., for a bonus application.

3. Service in the Panama Canal is considered home service.

N. LEF., BRIDGEWATER.

Q.—I enlisted in the Army at the age of 23 years, served at home from June 7, 1917, to June 30, 1918, and overseas from July 20, 1918, to March 13, 1919, receiving an honorable discharge May 21, 1919. Please tell me what the maximum credit will be allowed me.

A.—From your length of service you will undoubtedly be entitled to the maximum credit of $625 allowed by the Bonus Law. The adjusted service certificate, payable at the end of 20 years, which you will receive will have a face value of about $1,560.

J. W. B., BEECHER FALLS, VT.

Q.—I enlisted November 14, 1917, sailed for France December 26, 1917, returned February 4, 1919, and was honorably discharged February 13, 1919. Please tell me what the face value of my policy will be. Will it be necessary for me to go to a finger print expert to have my finger prints taxen?

A.—From your length of service, you will be entitled to the maximum credit of $625, which will make the face value of your adjusted service certificate about $1,560. You may have your finger prints taken at any police station or any office where printers' ink is used.

O. J. J., CLAREMONT, N. H.

Q.—Was honorably discharged from the U. S. Army after serving four years (including 19 months in France). Am I entitled to a bonus?

A.—If your service was between April 6, 1917, and July 1, 1919, you are eligible to receive the benefits of the bonus law, provided your discharge was under honorable conditions.

NEW ENGLAND PUBLIC URGED TO BE BOOSTERS

Consumer Holds Key to Success, Lawrence Citizens Are Told

Lawrence, July 25.—A group of sixty of this city's most prominent business and professional men and representatives of the textile industries were present at the Chamber of Commerce New England Week dinner and meeting at the Merrimack Valley Country Club last night.

John S. Lawrence of Boston, chairman of the All New England Week Committee, addressed the meeting. His speech follows:

"New England's industrial situation is serious, but far from hopeless. The encouraging feature of the situation is the keen appreciation of the seriousness of the problem by all classes of workers and students and the growing desire to cure it.

ALWAYS COMES BACK.

"New England has probably shown a greater capacity to adjust itself to new economic conditions than any other part of the world, as evidenced in the seventeenth century, when New England successfully adapted its resources to the migration of civilization and for two hundred years she led the world in merchandising and transportation.

"No finer example of this can be found in history than the clipper ships and their thrilling experiences and successes.

"In the nineteenth century, 100 years ago, steam power and steel developed the transcontinental railroad and steamships, and New England successfully mobilized her capital, labor and management from trading and shipping to manufacturing, and the splendid cities of Lawrence, Lowell, Fall River, New Bedford, Brockton and Lynn bear witness to the success of this change.

"Today New England's resources and brains are again being put to the test.

"For some time it has been evident that New England had outgrown some of her natural resources. Factories in Lawrence have outgrown the waterpower of the Merrimack, as evidenced by the 8000 power plants fat with imported coal and oil, but the latent power of this rich section, and the dislocation of industry through the war, has concealed many a problem, and the public realization of the seriousness of the passing of certain industries to other sections where efficiency is equal and costs lower.

COSTS A GREAT FACTOR.

"We now realize that there has been a sufficient movement West and South of manufacturing orders to cause real distress, and are endeavoring to mobilize the purchasing power of New England to support New England products rather than the products of labor South, West and abroad.

"When we have learned to buy our own goods, to use them and to like them, and because we use them to make them better and cheaper, we can trust our salesmen to fetch us more orders from West, South, North and abroad.

"To be more specific, New England has probably lost a great many of the staple basic industries, industries whose success depends principally on cost. There's no denying that our power costs, transportation costs and living costs are higher than those South and West. This loss must be replaced by industries of style, uniqueness, novelties, where versatility of management, labor and merchandising control success.

"The whole social and economic structure of the City of Lawrence, the lawyer, the doctor, the retail merchant, the value of real estate, the support of the church and State, is put in motion by the wage distribution in the factories, and these factories are wholly dependent for their capacity to distribute wages upon the sale of their products.

PEOPLE CAN HELP.

"The citizens of Lawrence, every one of them, men, women and children, are dependent on the sale of goods produced in Lawrence, and for this purpose the management is supposed to hire salesmen to go fetch orders somewhere, somehow.

"What are the people of Lawrence doing to help the salesmen? Have they been using the products of their own mills? Are the retail stores supplied and do they push the products of Lawrence? Are they helping the salesmen? Do they know more about their goods than anyone else? Do they use their own goods?

"Would you patronize a restaurant where the proprietor went outside for his meals? Have not the people of Lawrence lost sight of the importance of orders to their industries? Their support in thought and deed of their industries is essential to their prosperity.

"If the present industrial depression has taught us a lesson which has set in motion a realization of the necessity for action, and the same spirit and character is here as in the seventeenth and nineteenth centuries, and I am sure it is; if we all forget our little grievances, our jealousies, if we become artisans skilled and efficient, if we make good goods and use them out of real preference, then and only then will New England be prosperous and happy, and will industries and railroads serve their real purpose.

"New England Week is an unpaid unselfish movement to sell the importance of the support of our industries through daily use to the profit of New England, and later, when we support ourselves, we can consider selling our products to others—Quality, Service, Loyalty.

MYSTERY NOTE HALTS PHELPS WEDDING

Girl and Greek Bus Boy Face Third Postponement

For the third time the wedding of Miss Florence Phelps, daughter of Lester Phelps, wealthy farmer of Ipswich, and John Kosivas, restaurant bus boy of Peabody has been postponed.

A new date for the wedding has been set—August 3—but relatives of the prospective bride intimate that the ceremony may never be performed. A mysterious letter received by Board O'Dowd, city clerk of Peabody, written by the town clerk of Ipswich has entered into the complications of the young couple and it is broadly intimated that this letter will make the path of the lovers to the altar more difficult than it already is.

The couple came to Boston, Thursday not knowing of the letter and Miss Phelps did some shopping in anticipation of the coming wedding festivals, of Greek extraction, was using in a Peabody restaurant when he met Miss Phelps. It was a case of love at first sight but the fate of Miss Phelps and the parents of Kosivas entered strong objections to the match.

By the parental obstacles were overcome and the wedding date was set was discovered that a faulty marriage license prohibited the celebration of the nuptials. Later when the wedding date was set the affair was postponed and now the third postponement, coupled with the letter received by the Peabody clerk, bridegroom of the couple to fear that a romance may be entirely shattered.

NEW ENGLAND GETS ALE FROM GERMANY

The Germans are flooding the entire New England market of New England with ale. The stuff comes in quarts and "nips" and resembles in taste and potency the English ale that was formerly imported into this country in large quantities.

The bottles bear labels indicating that the ale comes from Hamburg, although these labels are often torn or soaked off before the beverage is served in some of the places doing their business.

An unexpectedly useful neighbor
ONE of our merchant customers opened a new store near a First National office, and opened an account simply because it was convenient.
In ten years he has replaced his store with a new and better one, and has just built an addition. His bank balance runs from $35,000 to $50,000 today.
He says The First National helped materially in his growth, but it was the accident of being nearby that first put him in the path of the whole service of the bank.
There are ten neighborly offices of The First National Bank of Boston. Each of them is proving its daily usefulness to its share of the bank's 77,000 customers. At the office nearest to you there may be a usefulness to reward the few steps you take to get acquainted.

Expert Mildram Bares Figures on Showing for First 5 Months

Abnormal increases in supervision expenses of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company were pointed out by Samuel H. Mildram, consulting engineer for the City of Boston, at a hearing before the Public Utilities Commissioners at the State House.

Testifying in opposition to the petition of the company for increased rates, Mildram estimated that this supervision item will amount to $650,000 more this year than obtained in the last normal year.

He based his figures on the showing made by the company for the first five months of 1924.

Chairman Henry C. Attwill, impressed with the evidence as submitted, referred to the increase as "striking."

During the session, Corporation Counsel E. Mark Sullivan, for the city, and Attorney Charles S. Pierce, for the company, clashed over the manner in which the American Telephone & Telegraph Company acquired control over the majority of the stock of the New England Company.

Sullivan maintained that the American company gets a percentage of every new issue of stock put out by the New England company free.

Pierce denied this and proceeded to give a short history of the events which led up to the control of the New England company.

He declared that when the American company, or its predecessor, took over several local companies, 20 per cent. of the stock issue went to the American company for license privileges and patent rights. This was done, he said, because the small company has no money to pay for these privileges.

Later, he added, more stock was acquired from the New England company in payment for property turned over by the American company. Briefly in the figures, he explained, the agreement with the New England company was terminated and since that time the American company has paid for stock.

FATHER OF COOLIDGE RETURNS TO VERMONT

Washington, July 25.—Col. John C. Coolidge, father of President Calvin Coolidge, who has been a guest at the White House for the past fortnight, was on his way home to Plymouth, Vermont today.

The President had urged his father to remain here longer but the Colonel insisted that his corn and other farm products need his attention.

COACHING VOLUNTEER GUARDS

INSTRUCTING VOLUNTEER LIFE SAVERS IN WORK

STAGE A "RESCUE"

Harold Barr of Winthrop, carrying Gilbert Wenquist of Cambo after "rescue." The man in the pole is Jack Wallace of Red Cross. Barr was the volunteer life guard accepted the Boston American cues to be organizing a team at Hoop Beach.

PLAN DRIVE FOR DORCHESTER LIFE-GUARDS

A special drive for South Boston and Dorchester swimmers, to help protect the stretch of beach from City Point to Tenean Beach, as members of the Boston American volunteer life saving corps, begins next Monday.

Several men who swim at these beaches have been accepted for the Boston American's corps. More are needed. This is a chance for men to learn life-saving methods, for Red Cross lifesavers to renew their knowledge of the art and a chance for all to serve humanity.

Every afternoon next week, from 2 o'clock on, Captain Jack Wallace of the Red Cross and other lifesaving experts will be at City Point to train volunteers. Whether you have sent in an application blank or not, you can start training there.

To those who report for this training at City Point on Monday Captain Wallace promises to give a complete course of training and qualification tests before the week is over. This means that by Friday night several will be full-fledged Red Cross lifesavers and eligible for the American's corps and the uniforms to be furnished the first fifty Boston swimmers named by the Horace Partridge Company.

Swimmers who use the Boston beaches are appealed to in this drive. Five men from Atlantic, which is part of Quincy, reported every day at Magazine Beach, Cambridge, until they had qualified for the corps, and if these men could come from Quincy daily more should come from Boston.

The death list along the stretch known as Tenean Beach is growing. There cannot be too many guards there.

The training on Tuesday and Thursday evenings at Magazine Beach will be continued.

Charlestown men who swim at Dewey Beach, and swimmers who use the beach at North End Park, are also appealed to. The Charlestown men will be given a chance to train at the Boys' Club pool.

Pastor Defends Sex Novel as Educational

Star Island, N. H., July 25.—Rev. Charles R. Joy of Dedham at the Unitarian Summer conference, defended the sex novel as doing what the school, church and home have been too prudish to do in the training of youth. His subject was "Religion in Current Fiction" and he asserted that all great novels must be religious at heart.

'JOKER' FOUND IN BONUS MEASURE

A "joker" in the bonus bill recently passed by Congress has been brought to light.

This "joker" puts a heavy penalty on those veterans who die before they make application for their adjusted insurance provided in the bonus bill.

A pamphlet just issued by the War and Navy Departments in Washington points out the need of quick action if veterans desire to secure the full advantage of the insurance provided in the bonus bill.

The dependents of a veteran who dies without making application for the adjusted insurance receive just one-third of the amount that would be paid were the application for the insurance on file in Washington.

The sections of the bill which make it possible for a veteran to lose, for his dependents, two-thirds of the value of his adjusted service certificate, can be briefly told.

Under the law a veteran receives $1 a day for every day of home service, and $1.25 for every day of overseas service (less 60 days), and the total amount is called the "adjusted service credit."

This "credit," with an additional 25 per cent. with compound interest at 4 per cent. for 20 years, is figured out by the War or Navy Departments, and the veteran receives an "adjusted service certificate." This certificate is worth, roughly, about three times his service credit.

Thus, if a veteran is entitled to the maximum "credit" of $625, his "certificate" would have a face value of about three times that amount, or $1,700 to $1,800, depending on his age.

But here enters the catch. Should a veteran die before making application to the War or Navy Departments or the Marine Corps for his adjusted service "certificate," his dependents would receive about one-third of what they would receive in the second instance.

CHANGES MIND, HAS DIVORCE SET ASIDE

New York, July 25.—At her request the divorce decree of Mrs. James McVickar, socially prominent, from her clubman husband, has been set aside. This announcement was made by Attorney Edward W. McMahon, her counsel.

The divorce decree would have become final August 7, but Mrs. McVickar decided she didn't want to be divorced so instructed her attorney to appear in the Supreme Court to have it set aside, which he did on July 11, according to his announcement.

In explaining his client's action, Mr. McMahon said:

"Mrs. McVickar simply does not wish a divorce. She changed her mind about the matter. She has no intention of marrying again. That's all there is to say."

MET AT DINNER PARTY.

Mrs. McVickar, who has had many unusual experiences, is fifty years of age. Her present husband is forty-two. Their marriage was a secret affair. They slipped over to Jersey City, N. J., from New York City to be married, as the bride desired to avoid the fuss that accompanies weddings. The day previous she had attended the funeral of John N. Wanamaker, her son-in-law's grandfather.

Her romance with Mr. McVickar was shattered after seven months of matrimony. They then terminated. They had known each other only six months prior to marriage having met at a dinner party.

Four years ago Mrs. McVickar figured prominently in the news when she was thrown into the private swimming pool of Mrs. Raymond T. Baker's mansion, on estate Holmwood, at Lenox. This incident occurred when the society folk who attended a costume ball resolved to the pool. Mrs. McVickar, who went to the ball in gypsy costume, was shot into the pool by Sidney Catford, Jr.

WAS MARRIED BEFORE.

Catford had married Beggie Vanderbilt's divorced wife. This incident gave him a big setback as Mrs. Baker crossed him off her invitation list.

McVickar's first wife, Mrs. Daisy Emerson Horner McVickar, divorced him. She was the daughter of a wealthy Baltimore manufacturer.

The present Mrs. McVickar is the widow of William Deacon Philadelphia saw manufacturer. Her daughter is the wife of John Wanamaker, Jr.

MATRON QUITS JAIL JOB AFTER ATTACK

New Bedford, July 25.—Mrs. Lucy C. McNamee has quit her post as matron of the House of Correction.

Mrs. McNamee stood for much in her official job, but when five of the inmates attempted to mob her and one finally threw a bucket of cold water over her she decided that the job was too much.

The five unruly inmates of the institution attacked the matron while she was passing through their ward. Mrs. McNamee fought gamely and finally managed to reach a door, which she opened and then hastily bolted behind her.

BENEFIT OFFICERS PLEAD NOT GUILTY

Officers of the Damon Brotherhood of America pleaded not guilty in Municipal Court today to charges of conducting a fraternal beneficiary organization in Massachusetts without license from the insurance commissioner. BANKERS WORK TO COERCE HERRIOT

Decline to Make Loan as Long as France Menaces Germany

London, July 25 (A.P.)—Although Premier Theunis of Belgium and the American representatives at the Inter-Allied Conference are continuing to exercise to the utmost their powers of conciliation, the deadlock remains unbroken between Premier Herriot of France and the British and American financiers over the formula to secure the proposed loan to Germany.

A long conference between M. Theunis and Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan & Co., was typical of the efforts which are being made and the resources which are being exercised in an effort to restore the unanimity which characterized the earlier work of the conference.

What American investors would demand was summarized by one banker as follows: An assurance against the possibility of a new war; the lifting of the reparations payments, once a formula has been decided upon, from the hands of politicians and statesmen and placing this charge in the hands of an international committee working under the guidance of the League of Nations; positive assurances that Germany would not only approve the plan, but also manifest a spirit of enthusiasm in carrying it out, and a security in case of wilful default. The purpose of the loan must also be clearly stipulated.

DAD OF 10 RAPS 'RACE SUICIDE'

Rich Portuguese Scoffs at High Living Cost as He Brings Flock to Hub

If Theodore Roosevelt could have been at the Quincy House when Mr. and Mrs. Aristides Mendes made their triumphal entry he undoubtedly would have worked the good old word "Bully" to a frazzle.

For when the Mendes family sits down to table it numbers an even dozen, counting Sebastiano, the baby.

Aristides, the father, is a brisk young man, under forty, formerly Portugese counsel-general in California.

The mother is only thirty-four years old, healthy, happy and pleasant faced.

They expect to be blessed with many more children, maybe, to boast an even score before they close the family lists.

Portuguese is a prolific language, as the Portuguese are a prolific race, and they do not have to fear that they will run out of names.

Here are some statistics on the Mendes family, temporarily established in Boston:

$10 DAY FOR FOOD.

Sebastiana, the baby of the ten children, is nine months old. The oldest child is thirteen and a few months.

It takes $40 a day to feed the tribe.

In a year they wear out sixty pairs of stockings, three dozen boys' suits, six dozen girls' dresses, twenty coats, one dozen sweaters and twenty-five hats, caps and bonnets. When they decide to ascend to their rooms at the Quincy House an entire elevator car is turned over to them.

When they want to make a family party at a theatre they just don't, that's all. No ticket agent alive can ever furnish "twelve together."

"How do you support such a crowd?" the reporters asked Mr. Mendes, the modest father of the gang.

"Well, there are many ways," said he, his eyes twinkling. "But a very pleasant way is to inherit the money to do it with."

Later the reporters discovered that Mr. Mendes is a millionaire, with vast estates in Portugal, and has never had to worry much about the high cost of soothing syrup or toy balloons.

But he would be just as much in favor of big families if he had to earn the money, he is convinced, and his wife is with him there.

HAS TO COUNT THEM.

They are two of the most embittered enemies of race suicide who ever came to Boston.

"Even if our children are to be rich, they are reared as if they were not," said the mother.

"I believe that those who spare the rod spoil the child. It takes more than suggestion or moral suasion to bring up ten of them in the way they should go.

"But children who grow up in a group such as ours have one advantage, to start with. Children are healthy little animals and selfish. In a big family they learn that they have to live and let live, and make sacrifices which children in small families never do."

Mrs. Mendes, being the mother of the ten, says everyone is radically different in appearance and temperament. They are distinct personalities to her.

But Mr. Mendes is only a father, even if a very successful one, and he admits that there are times when he has to resort to the count to make sure his little flock is all together.

Taking the ten out street car riding is a sport Mr. Mendes is not fond of. He much prefers an automobile, or even two or three.

Mrs. Mendes is a pretty woman, of the dark Latin type. She has not allowed her manifold duties as a mother to cause her to forget her wifely duty to keep herself attractive.

ONE BIG, HAPPY FAMILY.

When the reporter called she was wearing a two-piece sport suit. She is young enough and child enough to delight in parading her treasures in public and have astonished people ask where all their mothers are.

POLICE FAIL TO BREAK SESSION

Amesbury Boys, Drawn to the Scene, Turn on Sentries With Fusilade

Salisbury, July 25.—Riot and bloodshed were near when 500 hooded members of the Ku Klux Klan burned a giant cross in the field of Harry E. French on Murdock road early today.

While Klansmen, armed with black-jacks and clubs, patrolled the roads leading to the field, 200 young men from Amesbury gathered nearby and threatened to attack.

When the high officials of the Klan left the field in a closed automobile, the car was stoned by the Amesbury youths. Stones were also hurled at other machines as they drove from the field onto the main highway.

HAD FIRE PERMIT.

A moment after the cross, forty feet high and twenty-four feet across was set on fire, Chief of Police Harold Congdon was notified. He drove to the field and demanded of the Klan leaders that they show their permit to build a fire and also the permit to hold a public gathering.

French, owner of the field in which the meeting was held, is also a fire warden and in renting the field to the Klansmen he also issued a permit to build a fire. The men, however, had no permit to hold a public gathering.

Chief Congdon, fearing a riot, did not place any of the Klansmen under arrest. The license tags on forty of the cars parked in the field were copied, however, and these numbers will be turned over to the county authorities for such action as they may deem desirable.

Local police constituted the principal topic for discussion at the meeting of the hooded order, but the guards about the field saw to it that none save members of the organization were within hearing distance of the speakers.

When the first of the automobiles pulled away from the field after the burning of the cross half a dozen stones were hurled by the Amesbury youths. From time to time as the cars passed along the main highway they were stoned, but the biggest demonstration was against the last car which contained the Klan officers.

The automobile was struck by several of the stones, but the police were unable to learn whether or not any of the occupants had been injured.

WOOD FIRE SWEEPS BIG TRACT IN WEST ANDOVER

West Andover, July 25.—Timber worth several thousand dollars was destroyed by a fire which started on the outskirts of this community today. Half a dozen meadows were burned over and farm buildings were threatened. Members of the Andover fire department and volunteers combined to fight the blaze.

$1,000 IN CASH AND AUTO GO UP IN SMOKE

Spartanburg, S. C., July 25 (I. N. S.).—A $1,000 payroll of the Franklin Spinning Company's mill was destroyed today when a automobile truck caught fire. The money was being taken to the mill by J. J. Shehand, driver of the truck. He escaped unhurred, but was unable to save the money.

TELLS OF "HOUSE OF HORRORS"

WILDA BENNETT

Broadway favorite who declared the robbers who stole $500,000 in jewels from the Palmer home had keys to the place. She says that even after the robbery the house did not cease to be a "house of horrors."

WEST END BOYS ARRAIGNED FOR MURDER

Vincenzo Piccinni, Joseph F. De Glossa and Angelo A. Delmaggio, all of the West End, were arraigned in East Cambridge Court today charged with the murder of Leo F. Kelly of East Cambridge. The case was continued until July 31.

Kelly was shot to death by one of five men in taxi outside an East Cambridge dance hall a month ago. A wedding was taking place in the hall when a row started over an alleged insult to a girl.

The man implicated was excluded from the hall. A short time after Kelly was passing the hall land as he neared the vicinity of the taxi he was fired upon by one of its occupants.

To Aid Irish School

Graduates of the Christian Brothers' School of Ennistymon, County Clare, Ireland, met in Deacon Hall and planned a series of social events to raise funds for the new building fund of the school.

DEATH THREAT FOLLOWED ROBBERY

New York, July 25.—Wilda Bennett, Broadway musical comedy star, made the direct charge that robbers who looted the home of Mrs. Charlotte K. Palmer, of $500,000 in jewels, entered the luxurious home by means of keys and were not forced to break into the home.

The robbery was committed in November, 1923. At the time of the robbery Mrs. Palmer and her servants were bound and gagged.

Miss Bennet made her revelation while counsel for Mrs. Palmer was conducting an inquiry into a judgment against the actress for $1,433.

The judgment was awarded in Mrs. Palmer's action to recover the quarterly instalment of rent due for the actress' lease of the Palmer home which she signed August 14, 1921, and which expires September 1, next.

Miss Bennett's story revealed that the Palmer mansion did not cease to be a "house of horrors" after the robbery. Soon after she moved in Miss Bennett declared, she received two letters threatening her life and found that the robbers of Mrs. Palmer had keys which enabled them successfully to stage a robbery of such magnitude.

She also alleged Mrs. Palmer failed to keep her agreement to turn over to the actress the dwelling completely furnished in the best manner, compelling her (Miss Bennett) to buy furniture valued at $2,500.

Miss Bennett asked the court to award her a judgment of $7,500 against Mrs. Palmer but the court ruled Miss Bennett should have put in her counter claim in the first suit and gave judgment to Mrs. Palmer.

SLAYER IS SAVED BY AIR MAIL

Fast Trip From California With Appeal Gains Reprieve at Washington

Washington, July 25.—Isaac Wolfgang, convicted "milk-bottle" slayer is alive today because of the speed of Uncle Sam's air mail service.

Wolfgang was in the deathhouse in Los Angeles, the scaffold was erected and the hour for his execution had almost arrived, when Associate Justice McKenna of the United States Supreme Court signed an order granting a stay of execution for one week, pending an appeal.

Wolfgang, a pauper, was convicted of killing a policeman when he was arrested for stealing a bottle of milk.

While Wolfgang was in the shadow of the gallows his attorney prepared the papers carrying the case to the Supreme Court. The papers were sent by air mail and when the documents reached New York they were rushed by airplane to Washington, where they were promptly signed by Justice McKenna.

Word that the papers had been signed was telegraphed to Los Angeles, and the execution was stayed.

Wolfgang is without funds to carry on his own defense, and the appeal will be heard without cost to him.

Had the air line mail from California been several hours late, the papers would have arrived in Washington too late to save the life of the slayer.

—what they mean and what their object is much to those who follow their announcements.

They mean

much in money saving.

much in the way of right qualities.

Because

None but new merchandise offered—and none at a price that even approaches the natural asking price.

The value must be so pronounced as to need day-to-day but a small announcement resulting in "All Sold."

The object

To make Big business in dull times.

Thus benefiting our clientele, benefiting the manufacturers, by helping them dispose of over-production at a loss but for cash.

And helping us—by keeping business alive through a naturally dull month.

Intriguing and Refreshingly Blunt Story of the Soul-Racking Troubles Love Brought to Pretty Boston Girl

SHE SHIVERED, a confusion in her mind. And, suddenly, glancing upward, beheld his eyes, rapt, intent, worshiping. They dropped a terror upon her because of their young, passionate faith so blindly shining.

He said hoarsely, as though the effort were enormous: "Helen, do you accept the fight mine? Did you think I could foresee she would be a ghastly little mistake? It is worse than anything we could have dreamed. If you had only come to me—"

MEDBURY SAYS—

By John P. Medbury

A WELL-KNOWN author says that it won't be long before smiling will be out of date. He may be correct, but it won't be until women start to go out of style.

AS Mrs. Patrick Henry would have remarked, "Give me alimony or give me death!"

ALIMONY is something that begins where love leaves off.

IT'S like the bread and butter in a restaurant. You get it for nothing.

LOVE often comes to a woman at first sight, but alimony usually comes after a second thought.

THE Cupids nowadays have no bows. Most of them are brought up in a cash register.

THEY'RE all the symbol of love, but you never heard of one being married.

A DISAPPOINTED woman once remarked that Cupids always used a bent policeman with a bow and arrow in their hands but a baseball bat would be more appropriate.

OF course, all people aren't actual alimony. It's only the ones who have to pay it.

OVE came said that alimony was a disgrace but this was before he started getting any.

LATER she put her pride in one pocket and her scenario manuscript in the other.

The Helping Hand

Thanks Givers

Helping Hand Editor:

I received some clothes for my boys 4 years and the one 8 years, but did not receive any mail and could not thank them, so I want to thank you very much. As I told you before my husband died seven weeks ago while at work. In about three weeks I am to become the mother of my seventh child and not a stitch of clothes for it. Please try and help me to get some clothes for the newcomer. Hoping I am not asking for too much.

MRS. M.

Needs Cots for Babies

Helping Hand Editor:

I am a young widow of 26 and have six small children. Please help me to get some screens for my windows, as I have so many flies and I am afraid for my babies. Could you get two cribs for me? Nothing to sleep in? I have to put them all in one bed and it is too hot. My children's ages are: Twin girls 4 and 7 years and four boys 4 and 3 years, 21 months and 6 months, so you see my children are all babies.

MRS. F. A. B.

Has 9 Girls and a Boy

Helping Hand Editor:

I have written before and did not get an answer, so I will try again. I am a mother of ten children, nine girls and one boy. Their father is only working part time and I have to pay rent and things to eat which doesn't leave anything to buy clothes with. Will some kind reader help me? All my girls need clothing and some. My little boy is in need of a suit and shoes. My girls' ages run from 6 months to 15 years. The little boy is six years. I will be thankful for anything that is sent. I am badly in need of a dress and shoes. I take size 44 dress and 5½ or 6 shoes. My husband is in need of a suit, size 36 or 38, and shoes size 7.

MRS. E. D. L.

Needs Shoes and Clothes

Helping Hand Editor:

I am a mother of seven children—boys 12, 11 and 9, twin boys 2 years, Girls 7 and 5. I wonder if there isn't some one who has some shoes or clothes that will fit the children, as my husband gets only three days a week in the mill and it is very hard to get them anything. I make over what things I get from my neighbors. I wear size 3½ or 4 shoes. Oblige.

MRS. G. K.

Nearly Destitute

Helping Hand Editor:

I am a very poor mother with five children from 6 months to 7 years. My baby is very sick with spinal trouble and I have contracted tuberculosis myself from being run down and only for a sister kind enough to do what she can for me I would be destitute. I wish you could get somebody interested enough to give me some clothes for my children.

Mrs. B. D. 2

Jamaica Plain.

No Steady Work

Helping Hand Editor:

I am a poor woman with seven children and my husband makes small pay and has not had steady work lately. I have to do washing to help out. If anyone has clothes to spare that would fit my children, I would be very thankful. They are girls 10, 8, 4 and 2 years, and a boy 6 years. Anything I could use for them in the line of clothing I would be very thankful for. The two oldest help out on their own clothes.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. F. X. Mahoney,
Boston Health Commissioner

THIS is the time of year when the vacationist is apt to be affected by poisonous plants. Different symptoms are produced.

Dr. Mahoney.

Most of the vegetable poisons such as bittersweet or woody nightshade, deadly nightshade, foxglove, hemlock, spotted cowbane, Indian poke, monkshood and poke berry affects the heart, either by depressing it, counter paralyzes the organ or by overstimulating it, causing what the doctors call "heart bloc."

Send for your doctor at once, instruct the messenger to tell him what's the matter so he can come prepared.

While he is coming, give an emetic—one tablespoon of mustard in half water if it is handy; if it is not, one heaping teaspoonful of table salt in tepid water—then stick your finger down the throat and force the vomiting.

As soon as the stomach has been emptied of what poisonous poison may be in it give strong coffee.

Other plants such as poison ivy and Indian turnip are irritants, the former to the lining membranes of the mouth, the latter to the skin.

The best thing to do for ivy poisoning is to cover every affected area (I mean, of course, as nothing is left, with oxide of zinc plaster which is surgeon's adhesive plaster, available at all drug stores. Keep the plaster on for a week or ten days. On the face, collodion may be used. The object is to exclude the air.

In Indian turnip poisoning, if some has been swallowed, give an emetic. There's not much to be done for the burning—just let it burn out, which it will do in a few hours.

Please tell me what formula would be good and nourishing for my three months old baby.

MRS. A. C. F. BOSTON.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

You should consult your physician, in regard to the proper formula for your baby. Until you can see a doctor, the following will be safe for a child of that age. The morning child of that age receives 4 ounces of milk daily, which should be diluted with 2 ounces of water. To this, should be added three tablespoonfuls of milk sugar.

Would you advise me to have my child's adenoids and tonsils removed? My doctor says that he would be much stronger if it were done. H. C. CHARLESTOWN.

You should be guided by the advice of your physician in this matter. Tonsils and adenoids often lead to infection and after effects which seriously hinder the growth, both of mind and body.

Please tell me the cause of perspiration and what I can do to prevent it. M. H.

Perspiration is due to ordinary life to high external temperature or undue color, exercise and sometimes by strong emotion. Normal perspiration should not be prevented.

FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

Powerful corporations, as well as capitalists, must watch their step. The bigger they are, the more careful they must be if they hope to avoid arousing hostile legislation and hostile action. America's citizens loathe but do not love dominating enterprises of monopolistic flavor.

When the Government brought legal proceedings to split up the United States Steel Corporation, just as the Tobacco Trust and Standard Oil had been split up, no customer or competitor, I understand, volunteered some formal testimony against the unsightly spectacle of the billion-dollar combination.

But what has happened in connection with the Federal Trade Commission's investigation into the legality and justice of the Steel Corporation's "Pittsburgh plus" method of fixing steel prices for the whole country?

No fewer than thirty-two States have filed sworn statements with the Federal States Commission, urging it to give them relief, to fight for them.

No doubt the whole country is beset with a multiplicity of intricate considerations, but in the subject now under discussion the prospect is extremely simple.

Is it fair, just and sound that we be compelled to pay for steel products in Pittsburgh or other producing centers, and pay the full price, but the same steel when charges that would be added to the Pittsburgh price should be shipped instead all the way from Pittsburgh, although your steel may have come from a point many hundreds of miles farther distant from your location of business?

There are two great sections of this country which are developing upon a new era of development, namely, the Pacific Coast and the South. The Steel Corporation offers the largest iron and steel plant in the South, at Birmingham, Ala. Its sales statistics for the Coast steel-making centre in the Middle West, Gary, Indiana, are huge.

Is it fair, is it just that every Southern and every Western buyer of steel from these plants should have to build up for the Steel Corporation far more than the price of the steel itself and the cost actually incurred in shipping the steel from these plants? That is to say, should the Southern and the Western user of steel have to pay a cost that was never incurred, namely, the cost of hauling steel from Pittsburgh when that steel was NOT hauled from Pittsburgh?

Just why this new industry should be distributed in such a peculiar plan certainly is not clear to the man in the street, who, to the end, foots the bill for steel as well as for everything else.

The Trade Commission's ruling illustrates one thing, namely, how great advantage made in public sentiment as to what glaringly unjust conditions should be and should not be permitted to take root. Only a few years ago, railroad rebates were regarded as ethical. So were a hundred other practices which today are frowned upon and legally ostracized. Although moderate minds can be added to the opinion that "Pittsburgh plus" plan is a significant that a Federal regulatory body now condemns it.

Nothing so thoroughly arouses the public ire as anything savoring of unfair treatment of little fellows or collective masses. Americans have a passion for fair play for all. Also they have an instinctive aversion for the underdog. Some business men, for example, have forfeited much of their popularity with the public simply because they have appeared to the public to be high-handed, domineering, autocratic. The heart of America is essentially democratic, and anything savoring of aristocracy arouses its hostility.

There are other corporations besides the Steel Corporation that are so tremendously large and powerful that it becomes a serious matter for them seemingly to run counter to the fairly unanimous sentiment of the country.

In short, any business corporation which doesn't carefully follow a policy of live and let live cannot hope in these modern days when public opinion is all powerful, to be allowed to live.

Total sales, Jan. 1924, to date—New York, 129,716,600 shares; in Boston, 2,959,434 shares.

STOCKS STEADY IN NEW YORK DEALINGS

Stocks were steady in New York transactions. The main price tendency continued upward, with good buying power developing in rail, oil and public utilities stocks.

A brisk industry developed for the carrier shares, Pittsburgh & West Virginia extending its early gain to 3 points, and Lackawanna and Lehigh Valley to 2¾ each.

Oils began fell back on profit taking, but most of the active issues were strong.

Steel shares were sluggish in reflection of the confusion of the bulls following the unfavorable trade showing in the face of 41¢ established last week.

Higher commodity prices, reports of increased employment in the manufacturing centres and the continued rise of money rates provided the groundwork for a buoyant movement in the general list. Call money opened at 3 per cent.

New 1924 highs were recorded by Lackawanna, Lehigh Valley, Pittsburgh & West Virginia, Chesapeake & Ohio preferred, Erie first preferred, New Jersey Central, Southern Pacific, Kansas & Texas and Famous Players.

Advances in Liberty bonds carried sympathetic strength to the railroad bonds, which also reported active bid from other securities in bond markets. Equity issues were dominated by speculative trade. There were alternations of public buying and profit taking on the day.

Recession in the majority of rails, notably coastwise issues of the Pacific roads were in demand, several shares of $100 par changing hands at $100.00 per share.

Reports that a friendly receivership motion was planned for Wilson & Co. showed a sudden break in preferred issues. Unfavorable observations as to selling, 4 points and new 1924 lows.

THE WORLD IS YOUR OYSTER

almost—If you own an automobile. Winding, shady roads, sunset views from mountain top or seashore are as inviting and wonderful from one car as from another. It's simply a question of which make you prefer—whether you'd rather save a little, buy an older car and have it re-upholstered after you've paid for the Winter coal. The American tells you which used cars are good. We have them inspected and passed upon by an expert before we allow them to be advertised. If fresh air, cooling breezes and your family's health mean anything to you, look over this list of splendid bargains in INSPECTED-INSURED USED CARS and make your first easy payment on one of them TODAY.

Mr. Death Ray Arrives

A Paragraph on Brazil

H. Grindell Mathews, inventor of the "death ray," arrives here. He won't sell to the United States his great idea, which would destroy flying machines in the air, and enable its possessor to rule the world. "Only his beloved Great Britain shall use his discovery."

The determination does him credit. We praise it all the more freely because there is no such "death ray," except in Mr. Mathews' hopeful mind.

Invisible rays can exercise a LITTLE power at a SHORT distance. That is all. The rays now under control would not bother a flying machine dropping TNT from a height of five miles.

"Rebels" in Brazil are making "dangerous progress." The Brazilian President may resign to pacify the rebels.

And United States ships may be sent to Brazil. They will go, presumably, to look on, not to meddle. We should let other nations of North and South America attend to their business, reserving our interference for attacks from abroad.

Nobody here knows whether rebel or established government in Brazil is in the right.

"Compound Insanity"

Not New, but Convenient

The defence of the young murderers of the Franks boy will offer "compound insanity" as the power and excuse behind the murder. Reporters will make as much of that new word as they did of "dementia precox" in the famous Thaw trial.

Lawyers for the Loeb and Leopold defence will allege that neither youth BY HIMSELF would have committed murder, but that the two together developed the COMPOUND insanity.

That's a convenient theory, but it isn't new. It means injecting the theory of mob contagion into a murder trial. The "dance of death" and flagellation among mob maniacs in the Middle Ages, fanatics lashing themselves and each other, represented "compound insanity," although the fancy name for it had not been invented.

Penn's Lonely Grave

Little He Cares. What Grave Is NOT Lonely?

Governor Gifford Pinchot put a wreath on the lonely grave of William Penn, in a little country cemetery at Jordan's Corner, forty miles from London. Pinchot, representing the Quakers of the world, says, "Our problems will never be solved until we can truthfully call each other BROTHER."

The good Quakers tried that "brother" business ahead of time. It will be some time, 50,000 years at least, before a man, catching lobsters on the coast of Maine, will call brother the Thibetan, milking his yak cow on the high plateau of Mongolia. You can't make brothers of a bushman and Lord Balfour, except theoretically. The brain changes slowly, and universal, real civilization must come before universal brotherhood.

"Opened by Mistake"

Letters Which Come to U.S. About the Mothers' and Children's Excursions

The Boston American is in receipt of so many letters complimenting this newspaper upon its weekly trips to Nantasket for mothers and children that we deem it proper to make the following avowal:

The Boston American's mothers' and children's Tuesday excursions to the wonder-beach have been made possible only by the generosity of the Nantasket Beach Steamboat Company, and especially the kindliness so characteristic of the PRESIDENT of that corporation, Mr. Frederic L. Lane.

The merely nominal "fare" of ten cents charged for each passenger—this for the round trip—is applied to operating costs, the day's wages of the crews, and does NOT go to the company.

On each of the two Tuesdays thus far in our annual excursion season the steamboat company has carried 3,000 mothers and children to the beach and back without an accident and without a complaint. Two excursions remain to be held. This year's happy tourists will number not less than 12,000. How many have been given a day of days in the six years of the institution cannot be reported with exactness, but the figures would be merely a LARGER testimonial to the splendid spirit of a corporation with a proud record of more than one hundred years of public service.

Thus publicly acknowledging, on behalf of our friends, a debt to President Lane and the Nantasket Steamboat Company, the Boston American must also offer thanks to:

The Francis S. Cummings Company, and individually to Mr. Cummings, Mr. Mulcahey and Mr. Colgan, for the 3,200 bottles of pure milk which have been distributed FREE on each excursion day.

The Berwick Cake Company, whose daily offering has been 3,200 generous slices of a famous product of the bakery.

The Bushway Ice Cream Company, for 3,200 bricks of ice cream—GOOD ice cream—likewise distributed free of charge on each excursion.

The James W. Brine Company, whose gift has been toys for everybody.

The Moxie Company (is there anyone in Boston who does not know of Frank Archer?) for balloons and other novelties guaranteed, like the Brine Company gifts, to please little folks almost as much as the ride on a steamboat.

Looking this report over, there remains LITTLE for the Boston American to take credit for except whatever service this newspaper has been or may be able to render in the role of messenger.

That service, a delightful one, has been compensated a thousand times over by the pleasure we have seen brought to Boston mothers and Boston children through the kindness of the men and the organizations named above.

To THEM be all praise.

MRS. SOLOMON SAYS—

By HELEN ROWLAND

My daughter, consider the ingratitude of man; for his thanklessness passeth understanding.

Verily, it taketh nine women to make a MAN—and ninety-and-nine women to make a Great Lover.

Lo, one woman traineth a man in the way he should go—and in the end he goeth another woman's way.

One woman toucheth his heart and awakeneth it from slumber—and straightway he bestoweth his devotion upon another woman.

One damsel understandeth his education and cureth his cubbishness—and lo, he springeth her "LINE" upon the next damsel.

One damsel teacheth him the new dance steps—and behold, he taketh another damsel to the "prom."

One damsel instructeth him in the art of love-making and teacheth him to "get"—and he practiceth his skill upon another damsel.

Helen Rowland

One woman introduceth him unto his own evening clothes and instructeth him in the tying of his cravat and persuadeth his hair to lie down—and lo, when she hath transformed him from a cub into a "sheik," he arrayeth himself in all his glory for another's delight.

One maiden leadeth him unto the secret corner in the garden—and the next evening he leadeth another maiden thereto.

One woman breaketh his heart—and he picketh up the pieces and offereth them unto another woman as a souvenir.

One woman stimulateth his courage, and maketh a man of him—and in the end he weddeth a woman who maketh a fool of him.

One woman feedeth his soul and satisfieth his heart—and, behold, he turneth unto another woman who feedeth his vitality and satisfieth his eyes.

Verily, verily, all the days of her life a woman is a PHILANTHROPIST, who wasteth her years in training men to be Great Lovers and Good Husbands—for other women!

For every man is the handiwork of many women; yet he believeth in his heart that the Lord made him that way! And there is no gratitude IN him.

SELAH!

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

There is a cottage poor and mean set in a village street; the place obscure and dull the scene, no lure for passing feet. The walls that ring it round are gray and gray its roofs and dim, for there age sets its sure decay, time beats with ceaseless tides. And in the garden gay of old, with pinks and hollyhocks, with gillyflower and marigold, the ghost of beauty walks. It goes forlorn down dusty ways whence bud and bloom have fled. It dreams of by-gone sunny days, of roses long since dead. One lives within that humble place, a fitting inmate there; no charms are in her homely face, no glory on her hair. For her, no fleets would sail the seas, to her no songs be sung, her smile would change no dynasties, no hearts by her be wrung. And one comes daily trudging by along the village way who seems to every soul eye, outworn and bent and gray. He is but one of hosts of men with no surpassing gifts; no fair inspiring tongue or pen; with every tide they drift, yet, when she hears his step afar how swift her pulses flow, she brightens like the morning star ere dawn's first rose blow. For him, she waits, a princess fair within her castle walls, her lips pomegranates and her hair pale gold where sunlight falls. And yet, but this do they appear to all who past them rove, for them alone the vision clear, they see with eyes of love!

Heartbroken Mother

Helping Hand Editor:

I am the poor mother of seven children—two boys 6 and 12 years of age and five girls, 2, 3, 6, 8, 10 years. I am not feeling well and am heartbroken, and I feel life is not worth living for, as my husband is not working as work is slack and I cannot get a thing to wear for the little ones, and if some kind friend would send me a few things, I thank them.

MRS. A. C.

Suit and Coat to Give

Helping Hand Editor:

I have a few things to give away, including a wool tweed suit and a light top coat that would fit a woman about size 36 or 38; also some waists. If you will send me the address of some needy person I will be glad to send them parcel post. Hoping I will have more to send soon.

M. M. C.

Thank you. We have sent you the address of Esther, whose mother is a widow with several children, and who wears the size you mention.

Received Two Suits

Helping Hand Editor:

Some time ago I wrote for aid and I received no answer until a week ago when I received a box with no name on it, and I don't remember of any one that would send me anything and could find no address on the box as it was all torn, but I do think that it was through the Editor of the Helping Hand that I received the two suits and a sweater. I wish to thank the person very much who sent the box, also the Editor. It was so kind of them.

MRS. L. A. C.

Brockton.

Working Girl Helps

Helping Hand Editor:

I have a few things—ladies' shirtwaists, size 42, and coat and a few odd articles I would be glad to give to someone, but they are only plain, common things, as I am only a working girl myself; still someone might make use of them, and if you will send me the address I shall mail them directly to them.

MISS C. A. W.

Thank you. You need not apologize for the quality of the things you have to offer. People in dire need are grateful for whatever is given them. We are sending you the address of Mrs. H. B., whose husband is out of work, and the whole family are in want of clothes.

Aged Woman Hurt

Helping Hand Editor:

I am hurt and have been in bed for five weeks. Would like some one to help an old woman. I have no children. They are all dead.

MRS. T.

Addresses Wanted

Our letter to W. K., South Boston, to call for carriage, has been returned. If not already supplied, please send correct address. Will S. F., who desires to aid Mrs. L. A. S., send us her full name and address? Postcard gives only initials, and the address is blurred.

DR. FRANK CRANE ON MEANING IN BACKS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

There has been entirely too much attention paid to the face.

After all, the face is a small portion of the human charm. And there is no reason why one who happens to be defective in this one little respect and abound in other beauties—such, for instance, as Trilby feet or a Katisha shoulder-blade—should be out of the running.

And so to the truth, as Talleyrand or somebody else said, that words were used to conceal thoughts, we might with equal justice add that faces are trained in hypocrisy.

Most of us have entire control of our facial features. We can smile when we wish to snarl. We can look modestly down when we are full of pride, and women have been known to weep for a purpose.

But you cannot do that sort of thing with your back. Backs is backs.

The character of people is quite often determined by their resemblance to lower animals. And herein it is our backs that betray us.

This truth has even entered into our language. We speak of a gentleman having his back up, by which we mean he resembles an angry cat.

Independence, courage, and all such militancy is much better indicated by stiffening one's back than by any sort of motion that can be made with the mouth or the nose.

And the most eloquent gesture of humility is the bending of the back. When we wish to do homage to the duchess, we curve our spines and kiss her finger tips. When we approach his majesty we bend our backs.

If humility is the crowning virtue of the wise, then surely, the back, which best expresses this, is a most glorious instrument.

It is the back that is really the class symbol. For is it not the burden bearer of the world, alias the proletariat, whose backs are bent by the fat and pampered bourgeoisie who sit upon them?

And, then, there is another thing. Have you not often had a back view of a woman walking along the street and almost fallen in love with her, only to have your dream shattered when she turned around? And, we ask, is this fair to the woman?

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON MOTION MAP

By Garrett P. Serviss

Suppose you could hold on your knees, or place on a small table before you in your limousine, a chart on which, as you sped along, a little inked ball, rolling about and leaving behind it a line on the paper, indicated your geographical position at every instant of your journey.

As you watched it you would be like some skyey sentinel observing from a great height your own automobile as if it were a lively insect scooting over the ground below. In other words, the moving marker on the chart would continually reproduce, on a minute scale, but with exactitude as to direction and speed, the actual movements of your car. At every moment its position on the chart would correspond with your position in the landscape. You couldn't be lost, no matter how many wrong turns you might have made. You could trace them all backward.

The nautograph, showing the movable inked ball, guided by magnetism, and the trace that it leaves on the chart corresponding with the actual track of the ship at sea.

Now, we may imagine that something of that sort may eventually be realized for land travelers because it has already been realized for travelers at sea, who, no doubt, have the greater need of it.

A French naval lieutenant named Baule has invented and tested such an apparatus, which is called a "nautograph." Our picture is from a photograph showing the machine as it appears in use on a ship. The chart is seen in place on ten, and the little inked ball is shown together with a trace of the route that has been followed by the vessel from the moment that the apparatus was set to work.

The position of the ball corresponds with that of the ship at the same instant of time. A curious feature of this apparatus is that the little ball is only connected by magnetic attraction with the moving indicator which travels along the under side of the chart. I make no attempt to describe the mechanism of the machine, a task requiring technical diagrams and details.

It is enough to say that by a very ingenious, yet essentially simple, combination of moving parts, associated with both the gyroscopic compass and the log of the vessel, both the course and the speed of the ship are reproduced in minimum by the course and speed of the little ball leaving its inked wake on the chart.

Thus it is possible not only to have, on a chart, at the end of a trip, a complete automatic tracing of the ship's course, with its variations of direction and speed throughout the whole itinerary, but the indication of position given by the nautograph at any time during the trip is right up to date. Where the telltale ball is on the chart, at that moment, the ship itself is on the sea. By old methods there is always a change in the ship's position from what it was at the moment when the observations were taken to what it is at the moment when the calculations based upon the observations are completed. The calculations show where the ship was, not where it actually is. But the nautograph keeps locked step with the ship.

There are, however, it must be added, certain small outstanding errors in the combination by the nautograph of the course and the speed, but these are negligible in comparison with the relatively greater errors affecting the older methods of locating a ship's instantaneous position.

It is expected that the indications of the automatic sounding apparatus that has come into use since the war will be combined in an improved nautograph with those of course and speed, so that the depth of water at any moment may be simultaneously known.

Once-Overs

HANDICAP OF AGE.

Have you reached the point where you sense the fact that you cannot go on doing as much work as you have, indefinitely?

It occurs to you that a younger or more active man may supplant you.

You wonder what you can do to overcome what you know is a handicap in a world of active youngsters.

The only thing you can do is to make your work better than ever before.

Because of your longer experience, you should be able to do work more nearly perfect than the younger and less experienced man.

The young and active fellow makes more frequent mistakes and is frequently in error in judgment.

The boss usually thinks more of the man who turns out the more perfect work.

It may be necessary for you to put in extra time, for which you may not get extra pay, in order to keep your end up, but it would be better for you to do this rather than lose your job.

Fear spoils a man's work, and that fear of losing your job is not justified if you do work that is beyond criticism.
